

Colombians Give Kennedy Biggest Welcome

Half Million Line Streets, Salute JFK

President Calls On Wealthy Few To Make Reforms

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Hundreds of thousands of cheering Colombians gave President Kennedy a tumultuous welcome to this Andean capital Sunday for the greatest reception an American president has received abroad since Dwight D. Eisenhower visited India.

Then, in the major address of his South American tour, Kennedy laid down a stern challenge to Latin America's wealthy few to join in "a revolutionary task," that of improving their countrymen's welfare.

"We in the United States have made many mistakes in our relations with the other American republics," he said. "The leaders of Latin America, the industrialists and the land owners are, I am sure, also ready to admit past mistakes and accept new responsibilities."

Reforms Vital

Unless they are prepared to start basic land and tax reforms, he warned, "leadership will be taken from them and the heritage of Western civilization will be consumed in a few months of violence."

The president has written these remarks for a gala dinner at the Colombian presidential palace at the end of one of the most heartening days he has enjoyed as chief of state.

A half million or more Colombians, from the poorest to the richest, turned out to show their affection—and perhaps implicitly their support for the $20-billion Alliance for Progress program Kennedy came to South America to promote.

They lined the streets and at times crowded his limousine to a virtual standstill. It was the biggest outpouring of popular enthusiasm he had seen since he campaigned for the presidency.

Hope For Better Life

He smiled happily and waved back, but he left no doubt in his dinner address that he feels the problems of Latin America involve something more than popular appeal.

"The millions of our people who have lived in hopeless poverty have now glimpsed the hope of a better and more abundant life for themselves and their children," he said. "And they do not intend to be thrust back into the darkness."

Under the Alliance for Progress, he continued, "the United States has pledged development assistance of a magnitude unparalleled since the Marshall Plan." The U.S. program designed to bring prosperity to postwar Europe. He said the United States has committed $800 million to the alliance in nine months.

On their side, he noted, Latin American nations have agreed to mobilize their own resources, carry out land reforms and solve social problems.

Kennedy, Betancourt Pledge Cooperation

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—President Kennedy declared as he left Venezuela Sunday that he hoped his visit "pleased our friends and confused our enemies."

Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt said he and Kennedy have agreed to work together to "prevent the establishment of totalitarian regimes in the Americas."

The two presidents exchanged farewell remarks as Kennedy boarded a plane for Bogota, Colombia, last stop on his weekend tour of South America.

Kennedy and Betancourt in a joint communique stressed their adherence to principles of "free self-determination by the people and to nonintervention."

The reference apparently was to the hemisphere's political troubles arising from the Cuban problem, which they discussed at length during Kennedy's visit. The communique, however, contained no specific mention of Cuba.

Eichmann Files Death Sentence Appeal Notice

JERUSALEM (AP)—Adolf Eichmann has filed formal notice of appeal of the death sentence imposed upon him by an Israeli court for his part in the slaughter of millions of Jews in Hitler's Reich.

Dieter Wechtenbruch, one of the West German lawyers who defended Eichmann, sent a notice of appeal Sunday, to the Jerusalem District Court.

Wechtenbruch said he hoped to be able to present the reasons on which it would be based within the 15 days allowed after Eichmann's sentencing by the court last Friday.

The Israeli Supreme Court is expected to start hearings on the appeal in January in the same community center where Eichmann was tried.

Wechtenbruch, who is acting for Eichmann's chief counsel, Dr. Robert Servatius, is expected to argue the three-man court was not competent to try Eichmann, that it erred in judgment and that there are sufficient reasons against the death sentence.

When Wechtenbruch handed in the notice of appeal the 55-year-old ex-Gestapo colonel was already in the prison in which he may be hanged. Its location still is secret but is generally believed to be the one at Ramleh, 10 miles east of Tel Aviv.

His cell contains a bed, a table, a chair and a jar of drinking water. Shackles and handcuffs are put on him when he walks in the prison yard.

Eichmann has no contact with any other prisoner. He gets the same food as the others.

Ramleh prison where Eichmann is believed to be held is the only one in the country which has a small extra wing for prisoners sentenced to death.

U.S. Army Unit To Defy Reds, Travel Autobahn

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army announced Sunday it will send another unit along the lifeline autobahn to West Germany Monday, defying Communist demands that such troop movements must stop.

The Army said Co. C of the 3rd Battle Group, 6th Infantry Regiment, will leave before daylight to drive the 110 miles through East Germany for a four-day training exercise in West Germany.

The announcement came less than 24 hours after the Communist regime of East Germany sent a note to the U.S. government demanding that troop movements along the autobahn be stopped.

The note was sent through Prague, Czechoslovakia, because the U.S. government does not recognize East Germany. Such East-

7th Underground A-Test Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States exploded a small nuclear device underground at its Nevada test site Sunday, the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

It was the seventh announced explosion in the current series of underground weapons tests. The AEC announcement in full: "A nuclear test of low yield was conducted underground today by the Atomic Energy Commission at its Nevada test site."

A low-yield blast is one with a force equivalent to no more than 5,000 tons of TNT. A spokesman said Sunday's explosion was well below the 5,000-ton level.

As has been its practice throughout this series of tests, the AEC would give no details on the device used or the results.

Blasts Rock South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—A series of explosions rocked South Africa late Saturday night and early Sunday shortly after handbills appeared calling for "sabotage against government installations."

The blasts were believed the work of a new African underground organization fighting racial segregation. Among the places hit were a suburban post office, several native affairs offices and an electric power station, mainly around Johannesburg and Port Elizabeth.

Police were posted around post offices and other public installations in all South Africa's major cities to guard against new bombings. A police spokesman claimed everything was under control and said a nationwide investigation is under way to find the dynamiters and break up their suspected organization.

The handbills calling for sabotage were printed in English and Zulu and signed by an organization calling itself "Umkonto we Sizwe (Spear of the Nation)."

Balaguer Offers Plan For Ending Political Crisis

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—President Joaquin Balaguer announced a plan Sunday to create a new state governing council and said he will resign as soon as hemisphere sanctions are removed against his country.

The plan announced by Balaguer in a nationwide radio address was clearly intended to solve the grave national crisis that has beset this island republic since the collapse of the Trujillo dynasty.

Under the proposed provisional regime, Congress would be dissolved and legislative and executive powers would pass to a seven-man council headed temporarily by Balaguer. The council would remain in power until February, 1963, when a new government would be installed. General elections would be held in December 1962.

"I will consider my mission concluded when the OAS sanctions are removed," Balaguer said.

He referred to the economic and diplomatic sanctions originally voted against the Dominican Republic by the Organization of American States because of a plot to assassinate Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt, for which the Trujillo regime was found responsible.

In effect, Balaguer's speech amounted to a first step to remove from high positions the remaining economic and political heirs of the late Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo who are still in the Cabinet and in Congress.

In brief remarks following Balaguer's talk, the armed forces leader, Maj. Gen. Pedro Rodriguez E-lavarrria, pledged his support.

There was no immediate reaction from the opposition. However in general the plan follows the outline suggested last week by the National Civic Union, the foremost opposition group.

33 Injured When Bus Leaves Road, Upsets

LEBANON, Pa. (AP)—A charter bus on a holiday excursion skidded off an icy highway Sunday and overturned down a small embankment, injuring 33 of the 36 occupants.

Good Samaritan Hospital, which invoked for the first time an emergency disaster plan, said it admitted 14, none hurt critically. The other 19 were treated and discharged.

The accident occurred in near-darkness shortly after midnight, when mixtures of sleet, rain and snow had coated Rt. 22. The bus, passengers said, was moving slowly and had been passed by several other vehicles a short time before the driver, Clarence Guntle, 38, lost control.

5,000 U.N. Troops Battle To Isolate Elisabethville

Drive To Seize Tshombe, Back In Capital City

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—Bitter fighting raged in the heart of this secessionist capital Sunday night as U.N. troops attempted to capture the official residence of President Moise Tshombe. Tshombe was reported inside.

Fighting erupted in the city's center following a concentrated mortar barrage and a giant pincer movement launched by 5,000 U.N. troops to isolate Elisabethville.

A Katanga government spokesman said Tshombe had returned to the capital earlier in the day after an overnight trip to Kipushi on the frontier with Northern Rhodesia.

(Brussels radio said Tshombe while away sent a new appeal to President Kennedy for an immediate cease-fire in the Katanga-U.N. fighting.)

U.N. jets firing rockets and cannon attacked the headquarters of the European-owned Union Miniere Mining Co. and several homes. The buildings were left in flames. U.N. authorities said the homes and offices had been used as sniper bases against U.N. troops.

Belgian consulate officials reported that during fighting Satur-

Congo Peace Talks Loom

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States said Sunday night Prime Minister Cyrille Adoula of the Republic of the Congo is prepared to discuss reintegration of Katanga into the Congo with Moise Tshombe, head of the secessionist province.

The State Department said the report of Adoula's willingness to discuss the issue with Tshombe came from U.S. Ambassador Edmund Gullion, in the Congo.

President Kennedy had named Gullion his special representative in negotiations to arrange a Tshombe-Adoula meeting after receiving a telegraphed appeal from Tshombe last Thursday.

Tshombe told Kennedy he was willing to negotiate a settlement of the bloody fight between the Congo central government and Katanga and asked the President to name a negotiator to help "stop immediately this useless bloodshed."

Tall, trim Democrat Graham B. Purcell, 42, and dark, handsome Joe Bailey Meissner, 36, declared they welcome a clear-cut decision between the parties.

Purcell ran first and Meissner second in a five-man field in Saturday's election in the 18,751-square mile 13th Congressional District.

The runoff must be between Jan. 22 and Feb. 6 under state law. Gov. Pierre Daniel will set the date.

Ikard resigned, effective Friday, to become executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute. His resignation left the House lineup at 260 Democrats and 174 Republicans. The other seats are vacant.

The encircling drive opened amid Katangan charges of U.N. looting and brutality toward civilians and claims of mutiny among U.N. troops.

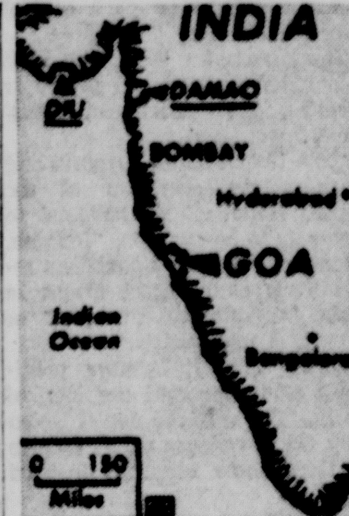

The Katanga Red Cross charged Ethiopian troops with the massacre of civilians and claimed numbers of U.N. soldiers had mutinied and refused to obey their officers.

Belgian officials at the Queen Elisabeth Hospital charged that Ethiopian units had looted homes and raped several women.

None of the charges could be confirmed.

$1.5 Billion Defense Increase Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Kennedy administration will boost defense spending by more than $1.5 billion next year in an expanded buildup of both nuclear and conventional power for deterring or fighting wars of any size. Official sources said Sunday that the budget going to Congress next month will call for about $48.5 billion in defense outlays in the year starting next July 1, compared with an estimated $46.65 billion in the current year.

285 Brazilians Die In Circus Flash Fire

Hundreds Injured; Arson Suspected

NITEROI, Brazil (UPI)—A flash fire Sunday destroyed the main tent of the Circo Americano circus, killing 285 of the 2,500 spectators, including many children.

Police and the circus owner said arson was suspected.

More than half the audience for the show's afternoon performance were children. Hundreds of spectators escaped the blaze but were hospitalized with injuries.

Witnesses said the fire started along the sides of the big top and leaped upwards rapidly. Many of the children and other spectators stampeded into the sawdust ring in the center and were trapped under the flaming canvas roof when it collapsed on them.

Circus owner Danilo Estavanovich said "flames enveloped the tent in 30 seconds." He said he was convinced the fire was deliberately set "because a short

House Contest Slated In Texas

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—A Republican and a Democrat squared off Sunday for a runoff contest for the U.S. House seat vacated by Democratic Rep. Frank Ikard.

Tall, trim Democrat Graham B. Purcell, 42, and dark, handsome Joe Bailey Meissner, 36, declared they welcome a clear-cut decision between the parties.

Purcell ran first and Meissner second in a five-man field in Saturday's election in the 18,751-square mile 13th Congressional District.

Negroes Weigh Next Step Against Racial Barriers

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—Apparent-ly undaunted by more than 700 arrests in a week, crusading Negroes packed the Shiloh Baptist church Sunday to consider the next step in their drive to "break the back of segregation."

M. S. Page, who took over leadership of the Albany Movement after its president, Dr. G. W. Anderson, was arrested Saturday, told a news conference that no further demonstrations are planned immediately.

Anderson and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. of Atlanta were arrested as they led 264 Negroes on a march from the Negro section of Albany toward City Hall. King is president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Meanwhile, Dr. Ralph D. Abernathy, secretary of the SCLC, called for a nationwide pilgrimage to Albany to support the desegregation drive. Abernathy was jailed along with Anderson and King, but posted bond and returned to SCLC headquarters in Atlanta where he held a news conference.

Abernathy read a statement he said was prepared by King. The statement reiterated a request to President Kennedy to issue a "second Emancipation Proclamation freeing all Negroes from their present state of second-class citizenship."

The statement also asked for mass calls to the President, Albany Mayor Asa D. Kelley and Gov. Ernest Vandiver to release the Negroes jailed during the protest demonstrations.

It was quiet in Albany Sunday, but state and local police remained on the alert and the Albany unit of the National Guard was on standby for the fourth day.

Seek To End Portuguese Occupation

Gunfire Follows
Invasion From Three Directions

BELGAUM, India. (AP)—India launched a full-scale invasion of Goa and moved into Portugal's two other enclaves on India's west coast Monday in a military bid to end 4½ centuries of Portuguese rule over parts of the Indian subcontinent.

The Indian government announced the action to end what it called the illegal Portuguese occupation of Indian territory, but gave few details of the fighting. However sources said Indian troops moving into Goa were supported by artillery, tanks, armored cars and air cover.

Authoritative sources in New Delhi said the Goa action was mainly on land and that the Indian navy and air force were standing by to prevent any counteraction against Indian territory but Portuguese forces.

The sound of fighting reaching this command post a few miles from the Goa border indicated the Portuguese were carrying out their pledge to fight to the bitter end to defend Goa, the largest enclave, about 225 miles south of Bombay.

U. S. Officials Disapprove

(In Washington, senior State Department officials expressed strong disapproval of India's resort to force. Indian diplomatic sources there predicted the three Portuguese territories would be in Indian hands within a day and said Indian troops were being assisted by underground sympathizers.)

Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon said in New Delhi the 17th Infantry Division was invading Goa from three directions with instructions to use the minimum force necessary.

He declared that there was what he called reliable evidence that the Portuguese were following a scorched earth policy, blowing up bridges and possibly oil storage tanks.

Official reports reaching here said there was only nominal resistance in Damao and Diu, the two smaller enclaves north of Bombay which together comprise about 50 square miles and 50,000 population.

Provocations Charged

Menon said India ordered troops into Goa because of what he called a complete breakdown in civilian administration and provocations against Indian borders.

Portugal has ruled Goa—1,537 square miles, 650,000 population—since 1504.

Menon said the Portuguese were there illegally.

The invasion announcement came within eight hours of fresh accusations by Indian officials of a Portuguese crossing along the 180-mile Goa border and of firing upon an Indian patrol. It marked the end of efforts by the United States, Britain and the United Nations to prevent the crisis from erupting into fighting.

Portugal and India have been quarreling with increased intensity in recent weeks. Each side has accused the other of building up menacing military forces and making incursions.

Portugal accused India of massing 30,000 troops and tanks and armored cars along the Goa border the last two weeks. Unconfirmed estimates put Portuguese strength in Goa at up to 12,000 men, including African troops.

Negroes Weigh Next Step Against Racial Barriers

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—Apparent-gation drive. Abernathy was ly undaunted by more than 700 arrests in a week, crusading Negroes packed the Shiloh Baptist church Sunday to consider the next step in their drive to "break the back of segregation."

M. S. Page, who took over leadership of the Albany Movement after its president, Dr. G. W. Anderson, was arrested Saturday, told a news conference that no further demonstrations are planned immediately.

Anderson and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. of Atlanta were arrested as they led 264 Negroes on a march from the Negro section of Albany toward City Hall. King is president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Meanwhile, Dr. Ralph D. Abernathy, secretary of the SCLC, called for a nationwide pilgrimage to Albany to support the desegregation drive. Abernathy was jailed along with Anderson and King, but posted bond and returned to SCLC headquarters in Atlanta where he held a news conference.

Abernathy read a statement he said was prepared by King. The statement reiterated a request to President Kennedy to issue a "second Emancipation Proclamation freeing all Negroes from their present state of second-class citizenship."

The statement also asked for mass calls to the President, Albany Mayor Asa D. Kelley and Gov. Ernest Vandiver to release the Negroes jailed during the protest demonstrations.

It was quiet in Albany Sunday, but state and local police remained on the alert and the Albany unit of the National Guard was on standby for the fourth day.

Seek To End Portuguese Occupation

Gunfire Follows Invasion From Three Directions

BELGAUM, India. (AP)—India launched a full-scale invasion of Goa and moved into Portugal's two other enclaves on India's west coast Monday in a military bid to end 4½ centuries of Portuguese rule over parts of the Indian subcontinent.

The Indian government announced the action to end what it called the illegal Portuguese occupation of Indian territory, but gave few details of the fighting. However sources said Indian troops moving into Goa were supported by artillery, tanks, armored cars and air cover.

Authoritative sources in New Delhi said the Goa action was mainly on land and that the Indian navy and air force were standing by to prevent any counter-attack against Indian territory but Portuguese forces.

The sound of fighting reaching this command post a few miles from the Goa border indicated the Portuguese were carrying out their pledge to fight to the bitter end to defend Goa, the largest enclave, about 225 miles south of Bombay.

U. S. Officials Disapprove

(In Washington, senior State Department officials expressed strong disapproval of India's resort to force. Indian diplomatic sources there predicted the three Portuguese territories would be in Indian hands within a day and said Indian troops were being assisted by underground sympathizers.)

Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon said in New Delhi the 17th Infantry Division was invading Goa from three directions with instructions to use the minimum force necessary.

He declared that there was what he called reliable evidence that the Portuguese were following a scorched earth policy, blowing up bridges and possibly oil storage tanks.

Official reports reaching here said there was only nominal resistance in Daman and Diu, the two smaller enclaves north of Pombay which together comprise about 50 square miles and 50,000 population.

Provocations Charged

Menon said India ordered troops into Goa because of what he called a complete breakdown in civilian administration and provocations against Indian borders.

Portugal has ruled Goa—1,537 square miles, 650,000 population—since 1504.

Menon said the Portuguese were there illegally.

The invasion announcement came within eight hours of fresh accusations by Indian officials of a Portuguese crossing along the 180-mile Goa border and of firing upon an Indian patrol. It marked the end of efforts by the United States, Britain and the United Nations to prevent the crisis from erupting into fighting.

Portugal and India have been quarreling with increased intensity in recent weeks. Each side has accused the other of building up menacing military forces and making incursions.

Portugal accused India of massing 30,000 troops and tanks and armored cars along the Goa border the last two weeks. Unconfirmed estimates put Portuguese strength in Goa at up to 12,000 men, including African troops.

10 Freedom Riders Remain In Custody After Mass Protest

Over 600 Test Restaurant Policies

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ten persons remained in jail Sunday following a massive freedom ride staged Saturday in protest against segregated restaurant service in Northeast Maryland.

Between 600 and 700 integrationists—most of them out-of-state students—rolled into Baltimore, Cecil and Harford counties to test serving policies in some 40 restaurants flanking U.S. 40.

Fifteen persons underwent arrest as two groups of several hundred demonstrators each formed a two-pronged movement which closed in on the target area from the north and from the south.

Officials of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) had said 40 of the 85 eating establishments bordering a 60-mile stretch of U.S. 40 in Maryland and Delaware refuse to serve Negroes.

Picket lines formed outside restaurants which refused to serve the demonstrators. Participants bore placards proclaiming slogans such as "Civil Rights Over States Rights," "Segregation is Morally Wrong," "Does the U.S. Constitution Apply in Maryland?" and "We Will Not Settle for Token Desegregation."

One group of demonstrators was reportedly doused with water at a restaurant in Aberdeen, Md., but there were no other reports of violence.

Authorities charged 12 demonstrators with trespass, two with juvenile delinquency, and one with a traffic violation which he allegedly committed as he drove

Soviets Gloat Over Disputes In NATO Camp

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press gloat Sunday over the disputes within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization alliance disclosed at its session in Paris last week.

But commentators asserted that many of the disputes were deliberately stirred by NATO military leaders so that an atmosphere of crisis would give them an excuse for stepped-up war plans.

That was the view of Georgi Ratiiani writing in Pravda. "The diplomatic arguments of the West cannot hide the essence of the North Atlantic bloc as an instrument of preparation for war and aggression," he wrote in the Communist party newspaper.

All papers reflected the split among the NATO allies on the Congo question and French refusal to support negotiations with the Soviet Union on Berlin.

They also saw the Paris meeting as one more step in West German efforts to gain control over the alliance.

The reason for the Congo split is simple, wrote Sergei Zhikov in Izvestia, the government newspaper. "The United States supports and finances the operation of the United Nations 'blue helmets' in Katanga," he wrote. "Belgian, French and British colonialists regard this as a direct threat to their interests on the part of American monopolists."

Zhikov said that those politicians who supported the idea of Berlin talks with the Soviet Union only did so because public opinion in their home countries insisted on it.

Then he moved into the area of the problems that have plagued Latin America for many years—the bulk of the wealth in the hands of relatively few, while many live in slums and skirt the edge of hunger.

But they are unable to fulfill these pledges and their failure is etched in the dramatic contrast between a prosperous Western Europe and the grim, drab poverty of Communist Eastern Europe."

Bowles commented: "Well, we had a war over that 100 years ago in the United States and an awful lot of people got killed, and I don't think many people feel we were wrong in insisting on national unity in the United States."

Bowles, who is the president's special representative on African, Asian and Latin-American affairs, argued that if Katanga is allowed to pull out, the result would be civil war and chaos into which Communists would move.

4 Die In Md. Auto Crashes

By The Associated Press
Accidents on Maryland highways, made hazardous by freezing rain and dense fog, claimed the lives of four persons during the weekend.

The deaths, one in Hagerstown Sunday and the others Saturday in Baltimore, Frederick and Pocomoke City, brought the state's 1961 traffic toll to 433, compared with 494 for a corresponding period last year.

The victim of the Hagerstown accident was identified as Lillian Burkholder, 29, of Hagerstown. Police said she was dead on arrival at Washington County Hospital.

Officer J. W. Settles, who investigated the accident, said the victim's car collided with another vehicle at an intersection.

The Burkholder woman was thrown onto the street by the impact and apparently was run over by her own car, Settles said.

Dr. E. W. Ditto 3rd, deputy medical examiner of Washington County, said the victim suffered a fractured skull and an intracranial hemorrhage.

The driver of the other car, Thomas Beavens, 48, of Bestaburg, Pa., was not injured, police said.

Killed Saturday were: William A. Giles, 65, Bethesda, died at University Hospital, Baltimore, of injuries suffered when his car collided with one driven by Josef Ploskon, 38, Baltimore.

Austin B. Gross, 50, Frederick, was pronounced dead on arrival at Frederick Memorial Hospital after his car collided with a tractor-trailer on U.S. 15, one mile north of Frederick.

Dorothy M. Brunson, 43, a passenger in a car driven by Gartha Lee Brunson, 45, died after the auto collided with another vehicle on Dun Swamp Road, two miles south of the Pocomoke City limits.

Dead Girl Still Unidentified

HILLSBORO, Va. (AP)—An autopsy on the body of an unidentified teen age girl found near this Loudoun County community Saturday revealed no evidence of sexual assault, authorities said Sunday.

Dr. Earl Virts, deputy Loudoun County medical examiner, said the girl's death was caused by a subdural hematoma and a brain hemorrhage.

The body was covered with marks and scars from recent beatings, but the autopsy report from the state medical examiner's office did not disclose the cause of the brain hemorrhage which was responsible for the girl's death.

Police departments in Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia are checking their files in an effort to identify the girl.

She was described as five feet tall, 100 lbs., with brown eyes and hair. She is believed to have been between 15 and 18 years old.

Her body was found in a honeysuckle thicket alongside a dirt road a mile south of here.

A set of the girl's fingerprints was sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, but no matching prints were found in the files.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chester Bowles, special State Department assistant to President Kennedy, Sunday likened the U.N. fight to unify the Congo to the American Civil War struggle over the principle of union.

Bowles, who is the president's special representative on African, Asian and Latin-American affairs, argued that if Katanga is allowed to pull out the result would be civil war and chaos into which Communists would move.

(Continued from Page 1) anza Para el Progreso is a program which is revolutionary in its dimensions. We are well-equipped for such a revolutionary task. For the history of the Americas is a tribute to the creative force of free men, to the unparalleled power of democracy to reshape society to meet its new needs without violence, without repression, without a discipline which destroys liberty.

"There are those who tell us that the only road to economic progress is violent Communist revolution. . . . They pledge economic progress and increased human welfare. But they are unable to fulfill these pledges and their failure is etched in the dramatic contrast between a prosperous Western Europe and the grim, drab poverty of Communist Eastern Europe."

Then he moved into the area of the problems that have plagued Latin America for many years—the bulk of the wealth in the hands of relatively few, while many live in slums and skirt the edge of hunger.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband belongs to a gourmet club. They meet every two weeks for a late supper (men only) to study the preparation of food.

For several months now Paul has been coming home from these meetings after midnight. The meeting last night didn't end until 4:00 a. m. He said:

I asked him this morning what in the world kept him out so late and he said it takes time to prepare fine food. Last night's specialty was a Finnish dish—Marinated trout. Paul claims it takes five hours of careful watching to prepare this dish because the trout must be turned every fifteen minutes.

Naturally the fellows have a little drink every time they turn the trout. You can imagine the condition Paul was in when he got home. What does this sound like to you?—GOURMET'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It sounds like the trout wasn't the only thing that got marinated.

Paul is overworking the gourmet routine. True, it takes time to prepare fine food, but it seems these gourmets could work on dishes that would get them home by midnight.

When the club starts to put up pickles tell Paul he'll have to skip that meeting. Pickles take at least two weeks.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 13 years old and turning into a nervous wreck.

My little brother is six. He can get anything he wants from Mom if he nags her long enough. When she says no he just keeps at her until she changes her answer. I have to give in to him all the time. He screams and kicks until my mother orders me to give in, because she can't stand the noise.

The other evening I had some girl friends over and we were watching a TV show. He kept changing the channel. I finally told him to keep his hands off the set or leave the room. He called my mother and threw such a fit that she made me change the channel to the show he wanted. I was humiliated to death in front of my guests.

What advice can you give me?

—SISTER

DEAR SISTER: It's your mother who needs the advice. That son of hers is going to develop into a thoroughly obnoxious adult, totally unequipped to get along with the world, if your mother doesn't clamp down and teach him to respect the rights and privileges of others.

And she is being unfair to you. I hope you will show your mother this column. If she would like details, ask her to write to me.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Since you are forever harping on the subject of a separate roof for every family I'd like to let you know that it CAN work. Listen to this:

My husband passed away three months ago. My children decided I should not be alone. My home is on three acres of land. I have seven bedrooms, a cook, a housekeeper and a maid. My son and his family (3 children) are moving in with me next week. My daughter, her husband and their two children are moving into the annex as soon as it is completed.

We are all looking forward to living together with great pleasure. Everyone is thrilled. So you see you CAN be wrong. —MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Write to me a year from today and tell me if everyone is still thrilled.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — The baby of Bobby Darin and Sandra Dee won't be waiting for booties, as the saying goes. The "old man," if you can call the 26-year-old papa that, has been set for his SEVENTH motion picture within 15 months, and they all add up to plenty of moola.

Of all his ventures, Bobby is most excited about the new one, "The Last Westerner" because he's been hoping to do a western. Even went to his favorite tailor a few weeks ago and got himself outfitted in western attire before he even knew he was going to make this movie.

The director will be Don Segal, who will also co-produce with Steve Blauner, the team for whom Bobby recently starred in "Hell is for Heroes" at Paramount.

A deal that should be closed shortly is that of MGM to acquire the film rights of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," which stars Tammy Grimes in New York and has been such a success on Broadway. If the deal is closed, and there is every reason to believe it will be, Doris Day will play the Tammy Grimes role, and she'd be very good as the amusing Molly Brown.

Nothing is said about the amount of money paid, but I imagine it's considerable.

Actor Michael Wilding, who was husband No. 2 in Elizabeth Taylor's life, and who did such a great job in "Mary, Mary" on the Broadway stage, is at Paramount working on "A Girl Named Tamiko."

He and his wife, the former Susan Neil, plan to fly to Rome as soon as he finishes "Tamiko." He wants to visit his two sons, Mike and Christopher, who are with their mother and stepfather, Eddie Fisher, in Rome. Then he and Susan will go on to England to see Mike's 37-year-old father. But they plan to return here because Mike is about to close for two pictures in a deal he is now negotiating.

Saw "West Side Story" for the second time, and I was more impressed than ever with Jerome Robbins' choreography and the beautiful music by Leonard Bernstein. It poured rain as we were leaving the Chinese Theatre, but that didn't keep some of the people from going on to the party.

Natalie Wood was the last to arrive at the theatre on the arm, of course, of Warren Beatty. She had on a beautiful gown, and with the rest of us, slushed through the rain to get to her car. George Chakiris, who so many people feel will be a strong contender for the academy for "Best Supporting Actor," brought Rita Moreno, who is so good in the picture. Later, at the party, their sensational dancing of the twist almost stopped the show. Ross Hunter escorted Julia Meade, and Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer were guests of the Harold Mirisches. Audrey is here for the "Children's Hour" premiere.

The hard-working women on the committee raised $130,000 for the Cedars of Lebanon. "West Side Story" will be a hot contender for "Best Picture" honors, I believe.

Sunday, in a simple ceremony at a small church facing the ocean in Laguna Beach, Lorena Mayer, widow of Louis B. Mayer, becomes the bride of Mike Nidorf. Immediately after the ceremony, Lorena and Mike will fly to Honolulu for their honeymoon. They are both exhausted from the social festivities. They are so popular, everybody wanted to entertain them.

She will wear an emerald green suit. There will be no guests at the wedding, but the bride and groom will give a reception for Lorena's many friends in Hollywood when they return from Honolulu.

Very good news is that Dimitri Tiomkin, who was very sick, is not only well again but ready and able to go back to work. Dimmie reports on the MGM lot Jan. 4 to write the musical score on "How the West Was Won." His is another big name added to the glamorous list of stars and fine talent on this movie which is going to be a real biggie.

Sol Siegel had been trying to get Dimitri for a long time but his illness prevented his accepting until he felt he could do his usual top work again.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

A telephone call from Mark Caudle in Houston was all it took to get Patrice Wymore on a plane for Texas. He invited her to spend her birthday there Sunday and she accepted.

The most surprised man in the world one of these days will be Jim Hill, when he runs into his ex-wife Rita Hayworth in the lobby or halls of the apartment house where he is living. Rita has an apartment in the same building, same floor where Jim lives.

Rosalind Russell is taking her tall son Lance to his first Hollywood premiere, Dec. 26, when her picture "Majority of One" opens. She'll also take him to the party following the premiere. Irv Kupcinet, Chicago newspaperman and TV star, will emcee the festivities.

I love Suzy Parker's answer to an inquiring reporter who asked her when Brad Dillman was going to get his divorce. After hearing the question once too often, Suzy snapped: "I've been asked that so often, you'd think I was either his mother or his attorney."

After being away from the stage and motion pictures for 10 years, Jessie Matthews, who had a nervous breakdown, is putting together a one-woman show which will include singing and selections from Shakespeare.

Nancy Sinatra and her youngest daughter, Tina, and Frankie, Jr., leave for New York Tuesday to spend Christmas with Nancy and Tommy Sands. Tommy, whose role in "The Longest Day" was built up by Darryl Zanuck, made

Conference Set On Water Supply

A meeting of Allegany County and state officials will be held January 15 at 7:30 p. m. at the Court House at which a water supply survey of the county will be discussed.

J. B. Dowling, senior sanpment, yesterday wrote the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that State Department of Health officials had requested the meeting.

The survey which the state agency has been making has progressed to the point where it is almost complete, Dowling stated.

Besides the state health officials and county commissioners the meeting will be attended by members of the Allegany County Planning and Zoning Commission and the Allegany County Sanitary Commission.

No Such Thing As A Safe Gap

It was inevitable any lead this country might have had over the Soviet Union in nuclear weapons would be jeopardized by Moscow's recent tests.

Our detection devices showed the tests were carried out under water, beneath the ground and in the atmosphere. A preliminary analysis of shock waves and fallout now indicates the Russians succeeded in producing a much bigger nuclear bang with a much smaller trigger. They also are believed to have proved out a range of warheads adaptable to a variety of conditions.

Scientists who made the study conclude, therefore, that this country no longer can rest on previous assumptions of nuclear superiority. But can any such assumptions ever be safe?

Certainly the advances represented by Soviet space projects and the high level of research reflected in journals reaching this country underline the danger of under-estimating any potential opponent.

President Kennedy appears to have little choice, on the basis of the Russians' tests and their actions at the Geneva treaty talks, but to order tests that will make our nuclear arsenal and its delivery system the best possible.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Keep The Show On The Road

Herodotus wrote a great deal but one of his most used sentences is:

"Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

This is used by the Post Office to advertise its function. Of course, these days of high costs, the Post Office is not perfect in carrying out this task and we sometimes wait for mail longer than we should, but then we are growing accustomed to inefficiencies. In fact, we tend to forgive inefficiencies and even to become increasingly less efficient ourselves.

If we apply what Herodotus had to say to government, using current dialect, we might say that one of the tasks of the day is to keep the show on the road.

The Depression made the government too large an institution and employed too many persons at favorable salaries with routinized fringe benefits which had the effect of rewarding the inefficient as well as the efficient, the well-trained equally with the less-trained and making a job permanent by what it called tenure.

The theory during the Depression was that because a person was born, he or she, whichever it might be, was entitled to two things: a government guaranteed livelihood and a vote. The former pleased the citizen; the latter, the politician. Then came World War II and millions of young people, male and female, were withdrawn from the population and put to work in some kind of soldiering. Of course, both the males and the females felt that they were performing beneficially and nobly for their country.

I have often wondered why the public took World War II more seriously than the first war of this kind, except perhaps that few knew what they were fighting for and still fewer knew today what it was all about and who won the war. Be that as it may, many were killed, more were wounded, cities were blasted and hearts were broken.

The task, during the War and since, has been to keep government functioning and that has proved a most difficult task; because many governments collapsed, empires fell, colonies were set free, new governments came into existence and those who managed states were novices and amateurs who were caught with responsibilities beyond their ken and abilities.

Attempts at establishing a world state, or a world union, or a world organization were proposed in many forms but out of it all came the United Nations which started with 51 members and has now grown to 103 members and the growth has not yet come to an end. Every inch of the Earth is permitted to assert that it is a state except Katanga which is forbidden self-determination. If Mongolia may be a free state, why not Katanga? This puzzle has not been solved by anyone nor can it be understood why American jets and Irish troops are used to keep Katanga a part of the Congo but only Russian tanks were used to kill the people of Hungary. If the United Nations is to go in for promiscuous killings, it might kill some of those whom the Russians want to keep alive. It seems as though the United Nations specializes in fighting those whom the Russians hate.

Keeping government on the road is a very difficult task in these days when a program is hard to keep fixed for more than a few moments. Our Secretary of State, Dean Rusk, rushes off to Europe to compose such a program with our allies whom we have helped to remain alive, but they have programs of their own. Let us not be too excited about that, for in the end, they will know that we shall either stand together or fall together and that if the United States is unable to maintain a program, the whole Western World will collapse. Good sense rather than inordinate pride must prevail. Our major difficulty is that in the Western World there are too many cooks — too many great men whose varieties of greatness have to be reconciled until a program can be fitted together as it was during the past two wars. This is what we face at the present moment and we either find a path to unity or accept defeat.

How Kennedy Can Spend It And Have It Too

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — At the Kennedy administration's very first meeting on budgetary problems, the new President's close adviser, Theodore Sorensen, opened the proceedings with a warning to the eager, newly assembled economists.

"Boys," he said, "we've got to balance the budget, or at least we've got to seem to. You'll just have to bear in mind that the President's political reputation matters more than your reputations as economists."

Since that occasion, nearly a year has passed. The seemingly balanced Kennedy revision of the seemingly balanced Eisenhower budget of January 1961 has in fact resulted in a budget deficit of about $7 billion. But this unbalance (if you believe the economists so sternly warned by Sorensen) or some other, more slyly caused (if you regard these economists as dubious dreamers) has also produced a gratifying result.

The moderate but alarming obstinate depression that gripped the country in 1960 has been replaced by a moderate but still genial boom. Hence the Gross National Product has climbed and is still climbing, from $504 billion in 1960, to $520 billion in 1961, towards a pleasingly whopping estimate of $570 billion for 1962.

For the same reason, the forward estimate of tax revenue, based on a 1962 National Product of $570 billion, is not less than $92 billion to $93 billion. And this year, if the grim determination of the President and Budget Director David Bell produces the expected results, the Administration will present a truly balanced budget rather than one which is only seemingly balanced.

A balanced budget of $92 billion plus, in itself, an astronomical affair—what the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg used to call "a vivid contemplation." It is hard to know whether to be more impressed by the fact that this budget will be balanced, or by the fact that this budget will be the largest ever presented in times of tenuous peace.

On the whole, the fact that the budget has been balanced at this level is the most impressive aspect, especially if you consider that the planned expenditures will be met from revenue without any interest of the government's slice of the national pie. The pie has grown bigger, that is all. That is why the government can take the same percentage slice, and use it to pay steeply increased bills, especially in the national survival areas of defense, space, and atomic energy.

In percentages, the new budget will consume only about 16 percent of the National Product, whereas the last budget, after amendments, consumed 16.5 percent. Furthermore, the slice of the pie taken by the Kennedy administration remains the same as the slice taken by the Eisenhower administration in its last five years. In that period, the successive Eisenhower budgets consumed from 16 to 16.5 percent of the Gross National Product.

Interestingly enough, by no means all the President's advisers were completely satisfied with the foregoing figures, encouraging as they may seem to most people. This is a White House-Budget Bureau-Treasury Federal Reserve Board budget. Walter Heller, Kermit Gordon, and James Tobin, of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, at first advocated a "small" unbalance of about $2 billion, to make sure of keeping the present economic recovery going.

The "swing" was what bothered them. They blame the depression of the last Eisenhower year mainly on the vertiginous "swing" from a budget deficit of $12.5 billion for 1959 to a surplus of $1.2 billion for 1960. But on that occasion, the total "swing" was close to $14 billion and part of the "swing" was caused by a sharp cut in spending. Thus the economists are consoled because, in the present case, spending will actually rise modestly, and the total "swing" between budgets will be only about $7 billion.

The economic advisers have also been largely converted to the President's budget balancing policy because of the nagging problem of the balance of international payments. In modern economic circles it is unfashionable, if not downright immoral, to talk about "confidence." Yet Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and Federal Reserve Board Chairman William Martin have been persuasive in their demonstrations of the appearance of old-fashioned fiscal soundness will breed confidence in the dollar on the world markets.

None of this, of course, will avert loud-voiced outrage over "record spending," even though the budget will indeed be balanced, and without increasing the size of the government pie-slice, too.

Defense Minister Always A Potent Force In Latin American Politics

By Drew Pearson

CARACAS—The most important man in every Latin-American country—next to the President—is the Minister of Defense. Sometimes he is more important than the President, for on him depends whether or not the President is thrown out or remains in office.

In Brazil this year, the army intervened to block Vice President Goulart from taking over the full Presidency. In Ecuador, the air force, some of its officers trained in the USA, threw its weight behind Vice President Arsemena and put him in the Presidency. In Argentina, the army and navy hold the future of President Frondizi in their hands. In Venezuela in the past, military men have thrown out civilian Presidents, taken over the government.

The present Venezuelan Minister of Defense is Antonio Briceño Linares, a general of the Venezuelan Air Force, who has served with the U. S. Air Force and U. S. Navy at Maxwell Field, Ala., Corpus Christi, Tex., and other bases.

General Briceño is a modest, friendly officer who lives in a comfortable but not luxurious home with a small garden around it on the edge of Caracas.

"We must raise the flag of economic and social reform, the general told me over the lunch table. "We must have a democratic left of center government, such as Betancourt's."

These words, coming from a military man, yet paraphrasing President Kennedy's ideas on the social reforms, surprised me. But the general continued.

Battle Front Against Communism
The battle front in the war against communism is no longer in Europe," he said earnestly. "It is right here in the Caribbean. We in Venezuela know that; and we know we have to set an example to all Latin America. What we do will be watched everywhere."

"Dictators don't cure anything or achieve anything," said the man who probably has the power to throw out the present democratic government and create a dictatorship. "They only make matters worse. We have had dictator after dictator. The country is tired of them."

"I can tell you that only .006 per cent of the officers in the Venezuelan Air Force have had anything to do with revolutionary movements. I have had a survey made and I am in a position to know."

The young Defense Minister of Venezuela sounded somewhat like the young Minister of Defense, Robert McNamara, whom Kennedy has picked to turn the unwieldy Pentagon, and who has cracked down on generals and admirals who barge into politics. The difference is that the Venezuelan Defense Minister, unlike McNamara, is a military man.

Alliance For Low Taxes
This luncheon conversation throws light on why Kennedy's Alliance for Progress has fallen flat in most of Latin America, but is ahead of schedule here.

Kennedy has laid down the formula that Latin Americans must help themselves, that the United States is not going to pour money into a country without social reforms. And part of these reforms must be higher taxes. The oligarchies of Latin America have ruled for three centuries by taxing the lower classes without proportionate levies against themselves.

And there has been an alliance between the military and big business in most of Latin America for low taxes.

Venezuela, under the new Democratic Action administration of Betancourt, has been one of the few exceptions. And even President dent Betancourt has had rough sledding.

When he assumed office he appointed a tough Minister of Finance, Jose Antonio Mayobre, who had lived in exile in the United States and who drafted a graduated personal income tax similar to that of the United States. He doubled income taxes in the higher brackets, put a tax on profits from land speculation and stock market operations. As a result, five insurance companies which had been speculating went bankrupt, a hue and cry of financial persecution went up from both Venezuelan and American businessmen, and money began leaving for New York and Switzerland.

As a concession to indignant bankers, Betancourt promoted Finance Minister Mayobre to be ambassador to Washington. However, the new tax reforms still stand and some of the leading American companies, led by Standard Oil's Creole, have brought investment money back to Venezuela.

In Mexico, Finance Minister Ortiz Mena is also toughening up the fairly lenient Mexican tax system to meet Kennedy's Alliance for progress. But in most of Latin America, JFK's suggestion has drawn a big fat zero. The oligarchies just aren't going to tax themselves.

Business Leader
One do-it-yourself Venezuelan businessman is Eugenio Mendoza who has pioneered a new low cost housing plan for his country.

Mendoza, a most progressive businessman in Caracas, decided he could do something about helping those less fortunate. After studying the mass housing program of Gov. Luis Munoz Marin in Puerto Rico, he developed a house of poured concrete slabs and has produced 2,500 of them for his own employees at $4,000 each. Working on a mass-production basis and with some simplifications, Mendoza has brought the price down to $1,000 per house.

Recently the Development Loan Fund in Washington was so impressed with his idea that it advanced $5,000,000 to promote Mendoza's low-cost housing in Venezuela.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The Russians displayed a weakness in air defense. They thumped their chests and boasted when they caught U.S. Airman Powers and put him on trial for aerial espionage. But they did not mention that the American U-2 plane had made 2,000 flights over the Russian heartland before Powers was caught. The only reason he was captured was because his engine flamed out. He had to come down.

The previous 2,000 flights point out the fact that the cost of anti-aircraft weapons for 18,000 miles of border is too high for anyone. Also, whatever weapons the Russians have do not reach to 70,000 feet. The American Bomarc, for example, would have locked on through radar and chased the U-2 into oblivion.

If war comes, the primary weapon of retaliation will be the B-52. There are 630 of them, and the newer ones can remain aloft 30 hours without refueling. Each one carries nuclear bombs in two wings, in addition to a big bomb in the bay, plus an item called Quail, which looks like a small plane and which, when released, flies off on a tangent, confusing enemy radar operators.

The B-52 can carry a tremendous load of H-bombs to the heart of the Soviet Union and, enroute home, can advise whether the missiles have already eliminated their assigned targets. This plane also has a remote-controlled system of defense cannon.

In the first line of offense will be 1,000 B-47 bombers. These carry smaller loads of bombs a shorter distance. The mileage can be increased by K-135 tankers and refueling. There are 55 of the new B-55's, which fly at 1,300 miles per hour and can reach Kamchatka from Riverside, California, in four hours. More are coming.

A year and a half ago, a young Lieutenant Colonel named Donald F. Martin wrote an article called Counterforce for the Air University Quarterly Review. It amounts to a bible of United States intent. Martin says that the Air Force had two choices: (1) To deter war through military superiority. The U.S. has chosen the second. If it had chosen terror, the job would have been easier. We could make big bombs with plenty of fallout to be used on Soviet cities. We could use a new knowledge of cheap biological warfare, which guarantees scores of millions of people dying of disease while, at the same time, withering all plant life. Col. Martin feels that 10 percent of a population can live through such terror.

However, without knowing the intent of the Russians, the U.S. Air Force is making smaller I.C.B.M.s, not larger ones. Atlas is barely operational; it will be followed by Titan next summer but both will be followed by Minuteman, a smaller intercontinental vehicle carrying a smaller bomb. The Russians specialize in oversized weapons.

"Perhaps the easiest way to destroy a nation," writes Martin, "is to incinerate its major cities and with them the bulk of the population. A large number of weapons is required. Cities are completely vulnerable to attack by nuclear rocket."

He also mentions gigaton H-bombs. "Since one of these could incinerate an area from Boston to Washington, a few such weapons could virtually incinerate a nation." The U.S. has turned away from terror and makes H-bombs cut to fit military targets in Russia. Even so, the colonel feels that both nations will lose five to 10 percent of their population — 9 to 20 million people apiece in a "clean" war.

These losses will occur in spite of a first-rate Continental Air Defense, in spite of early warning systems, radar planes, new fighter planes, the Nike family of missiles and the Bomarc. If the radiation rains come, many people are bound to get wet.

By the time this country gets a reliable anti-missile missile, we will have space stations in orbit. So will the Soviet Union. A space station can carry a few 500-megaton bombs in low orbit. They can destroy an entire nation between the time of the soup and the desert. There is no upper limit to man's power of self-destruction.

Capability must increase on both sides. The U.S. Air Force, as it stands today in its several components, has cost us scores of billions of dollars, but is a bargain sale all the way. It is what keeps the Russians from pressing the button.

Col. Martin writes: "The comfort which comes from thinking that nuclear war will not happen because it is 'unthinkable,' could be our undoing."

Amen.

Manhandling Skin Makes Blemishes Worse

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons perpetuate their skin blemishes by overtreating or manipulating the lesions. The nervous, self-conscious adolescent may worsen the condition by constant squeezing, picking and chin fondling. As a result, there is considerable skin damage. Many victims of unsightly scars or acne that persists long after adolescence are guilty of this behavior.

Some emotionally disturbed persons are so preoccupied with cleanliness, order, and routine that they make a ritual of treating any blemish that appears on the skin. Some are obsessed with the need to eliminate every bump, rash, or blotch. Ointments are applied and rubbed in so vigorously and so long that the purpose of the remedy is defeated. Their zeal actually aggravates the condition.

In other persons, the skin bears the brunt of a distorted personality. These persons develop an uncontrollable desire to dig in because of intolerable sensations of burning and itching. They keep at it until the tension is eased. Many people are aware of their irrational behavior but the accumulated annoyances and frustrations of the day build up so much strain they are soon driven back to this self-damaging activity.

When a slight blemish, bump, or pimple is detected, some unseen force compels them to remove it at once. Deep scratch marks are noted on the exterior surface of the arms and forearms, thighs and legs, face, and upper back.

The causative emotional disturbances often originate in early life. They include repressed rage and hostility toward a childhood authority. Later, reactions to frustrating situations bring on nervousness. Other persons harbor feelings of guilt that make them want to punish themselves.

Subtler ways of damaging the skin include biting the nails, chewing on the knuckles, or sucking the thumb. Others tug on the hair, pull the ears, or bite the tongue or lips. A certain number are able to work out the psychological problem involved; others need psychiatric care.

George Romney tells about the guest of honor at a banquet who discovered at the last moment that his upper plate had cracked. "You'll have to cancel my speech," he told the toastmaster. "Nonsense," said the latter, "Here's a spare upper I have in my pocket."

The guest of honor inserted the plate in his mouth, and essayed a few words with disastrous results. "No good," he announced, pulling out the plate. "It doesn't fit."

Like a magician taking rabbits out of a hat, the toastmaster produced a second plate, which didn't fit either, and then a third plate, which was exactly right.

The guest of honor made a fine speech, received an ovation, then turned gratefully to the toastmaster. "It was a lucky break for me," he said, "that you happen to be a dentist."

"Dentist nothing," said the

No Such Thing As A Safe Gap

It was inevitable any lead this country might have had over the Soviet Union in nuclear weapons would be jeopardized by Moscow's recent tests.

Our detection devices showed the tests were carried out under water, beneath the ground and in the atmosphere. A preliminary analysis of shock waves and fallout now indicates the Russians succeeded in producing a much bigger nuclear bang with a much smaller trigger. They also are believed to have proved out a range of warheads adaptable to a variety of conditions.

Scientists who made the study conclude, therefore, that this country no longer can rest on previous assumptions of nuclear superiority. But can any such assumptions ever be safe?

Certainly the advances represented by Soviet space projects and the high level of research reflected in journals reaching this country underline the danger of under-estimating any potential opponent.

President Kennedy appears to have little choice, on the basis of the Russians' tests and their actions at the Geneva treaty talks, but to order tests that will make our nuclear arsenal and its delivery system the best possible.

These Days

Keep The Show On The Road

Herodotus wrote a great deal but one of his most used sentences is:

"Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

This is used by the Post Office to advertise its function. Of course, these days of high costs, the Post Office is not perfect in carrying out this task and we sometimes wait for mail longer than we should, but then we are growing accustomed to inefficiencies. In fact, we tend to forgive inefficiencies and even to become increasingly less efficient ourselves.

If we apply what Herodotus had to say to government, using current dialect, we might say that one of the tasks of the day is to keep the show on the road.

The Depression made the government too large an institution and employed too many persons at favorable salaries with routinized fringe benefits which had the effect of rewarding the inefficient as well as the efficient, the well-trained equally with the less-trained and making a job permanent by what it called tenure.

The theory during the Depression was that because a person was born, he or she, whichever it might be, was entitled to two things: a government guaranteed livelihood and a vote. The former pleased the citizen; the latter, the politician. Then came World War II and millions of young people, male and female, were withdrawn from the population and put to work in some kind of soldiering. Of course, both the males and the females felt that they were performing beneficially and nobly for their country.

I have often wondered why the public took World War II more seriously than the first war of this kind, except perhaps that few knew what they were fighting for and still fewer knew today what it was all about and who won the war. Be that as it may, many were killed, more were wounded, cities were blasted and hearts were broken.

The task, during the War and since, has been to keep government functioning and that has proved a most difficult task; because many governments collapsed, empires fell, colonies were set free, new governments came into existence and those who managed states were novices and amateurs who were caught with responsibilities beyond their ken and abilities.

Attempts at establishing a world state, or a world union, or a world organization were proposed in many forms but out of it all came the United Nations which started with 51 members and has now grown to 103 members and the growth has not yet come to an end. Every inch of the Earth is permitted to assert that it is a state except Katanga which is forbidden self-determination. If Mongolia may be a free state, why not Katanga? This puzzle has not been solved by anyone nor can it be understood why American jets and Irish troops are used to keep Katanga a part of the Congo but only Russian tanks were used to kill the people of Hungary. If the United Nations is to go in for promiscuous killings, it might kill some of those whom the Russians want to keep alive. It seems as though the United Nations specializes in fighting those whom the Russians hate.

Keeping government on the road is a very difficult task in these days when a program is hard to keep fixed for more than a few moments. Our Secretary of State, Dean Rusk, rushes off to Europe to compose such a program with our allies whom we have helped to remain alive, but they have programs of their own. Let us not be too excited about that, for in the end, they will know that we shall either stand together or fall together and that if the United States is unable to maintain a program, the whole Western World will collapse. Good sense rather than inordinate pride must prevail. Our major difficulty is that in the Western World there are too many cooks — too many great men whose varieties of greatness have to be reconciled until a program can be fitted together as it was during the past two wars. This is what we face at the present moment and we either find a path to unity or accept defeat.

Contribution To The Empty-Stocking Fund

How Kennedy Can Spend It And Have It Too

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — At the Kennedy administration's very first meeting on budgetary problems, the new President's close adviser, Theodore Sorensen, opened the proceedings with a warning to the eager, newly assembled economists.

"Boys," he said, "we've got to balance the budget, or at least we've got to seem to. You'll just have to bear in mind that the President's political reputation matters more than your reputations as economists."

Since that occasion, nearly a year has passed. The seemingly balanced Kennedy revision of the seemingly balanced Eisenhower budget of January 1961 has in fact resulted in a budget deficit of about $7 billion. But this unbalance (if you believe the economists so sternly warned by Sorensen) or some other, more sly cause (if you regard these economists as dubious dreamers) has also produced a gratifying result.

The moderate but alarming obstinate depression that gripped the country in 1960 has been replaced by a moderate but still genial boom. Hence the Gross National Product has climbed and is still climbing, from $504 billion in 1960, to $520 billion in 1961, towards a pleasingly whopping estimate of $570 billion for 1962.

For the same reason, the forward estimate of tax revenue, based on a 1962 National Product of $570 billion, is not less than $92 billion to $93 billion. And this year, if the grim determination of the President and Budget Director David Bell produces the expected results, the Administration will present a truly balanced budget rather than one which is only seemingly balanced.

A balanced budget of $92 billion plus is, in itself, an astronomical affair—what the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg used to call "a vivid contemplation." It is hard to know whether to be more impressed by the fact that this budget will be balanced, or by the fact that this budget will be the largest ever presented in times of tenuous peace.

On the whole, the fact that the budget has been balanced at this level is the most impressive aspect, especially if you consider that the planned expenditures will be met from revenue without any interest of the government's slice of the national pie. The pie has grown bigger, that is all. That is why the government can take the same percentage slice, and use it to pay steeply increased bills, especially in the national survival areas of defense, space, and atomic energy.

In percentages, the new budget will consume only about 16 per cent of the National Product, whereas the last budget, after amendments, consumed 16.5 per cent. Furthermore, the slice of the pie taken by the Kennedy administration remains the same as the slice taken by the Eisenhower administration in its last five years. In that period, the successive Eisenhower budgets consumed from 16 to 16.5 per cent of the Gross National Product.

Inside Washington

HEIGH HO, SILVER—The government's sharp change on policy over the price of silver already has sent quotations above a dollar an ounce on world markets. Inevitably, some sharp pencil boys are beginning to wonder at what price it will be profitable to melt down silver coins and market the bullion.

Here's the answer: Silver is valued by law at $1.29 an ounce when used in coins. Therefore there is a little less than eight-tenths of an ounce of silver in a silver dollar. If the world price for silver bullion should rise to more than $1.29 an ounce, it would theoretically be profitable to melt down silver dollars, separate the copper and make a profit.

The only additional factor which would have to be taken into consideration is the melting and shipping costs. There are no federal laws which would bar such activity although Treasury Department spokesmen say they'd try to discourage the practice.

COLD WAR PERILS—John A. McCone, new head of the Central Intelligence Agency, recently made a field trip to troubled Berlin to take a look at the hottest spot in the cold war.

As a part of his inspection he was guided to a flight of steps from which he was told, he could look over the dividing wall into East Berlin. As he approached the steps, he was startled to hear West German police shout excitedly:

"Achtung! Frisch gestrichen!" McCone leaped back, fearful that East German armed police were about to launch a shooting attack to thwart his observations. A hasty translation reassured him, however. The West German police were only trying to tell him to watch out for fresh paint.

Defense Minister Always A Potent Force In Latin American Politics

By Drew Pearson

CARACAS—The most important man in every Latin-American country—next to the President—is the Minister of Defense. Sometimes he is more important than the President, for on him depends whether or not the President is thrown out or remains in office.

In Brazil this year, the army intervened to block Vice President Goulart from taking over the full Presidency. In Ecuador, the air force, some of its officers trained in the USA, threw its weight behind Vice President Arsemena and put him in the Presidency. In Argentina, the army and navy hold the future of President Frondozo in their hands. In Venezuela in the past, military men have thrown out civilian Presidents, taken over the government.

The present Venezuelan Minister of Defense is Antonio Briceño Linares, a general of the Venezuelan Air Force, who has served with the U. S. Air Force and U. S. Navy at Maxwell Field, Ala., Corpus Christi, Tex., and other bases.

General Briceño is a modest, friendly officer who lives in a comfortable but not luxurious home with a small garden around it on the edge of Caracas.

"We must raise the flag of economic and social reform, the general told me over the lunch table. 'We must have a democratic left of center government, such as Betancourt's.'"

These words, coming from a military man, yet paraphrasing President Kennedy's ideas on the social reforms, surprised me. But the general continued.

Battle Front Against Communism
The battle front in the war against communism is no longer in Europe," he said earnestly. "It is right here in the Caribbean. We in Venezuela know that; and we know we have to set an example to all Latin America. What we do will be watched everywhere."

"Dictators don't cure anything or achieve anything," said the man who probably has the power to throw out the present democratic government and create a dictatorship. "They only make matters worse. We have had dictator after dictator. The country is tired of them."

"I can tell you that only .006 per cent of the officers in the Venezuelan Air Force have had anything to do with revolutionary movements. I have had a survey made and I am in a position to know."

The young Defense Minister of Venezuela sounded somewhat like the young Minister of Defense, Robert McNamara, whom Kennedy has picked to turn the unwieldy Pentagon, and who has cracked down on generals and admirals who barge into politics. The difference is that the Venezuelan Defense Minister, unlike McNamara, is a military man.

Alliance For Low Taxes
This luncheon conversation throws light on why Kennedy's Alliance for Progress has fallen flat in most of Latin America, but is ahead of schedule here.

Kennedy has laid down the formula that Latin Americans must help themselves, that the United States is not going to pour money into a country without social reforms. And part of these reforms must be higher taxes. The oligarchies of Latin America have ruled for three centuries by taxing the lower classes without proportionate levies against themselves.

And there has been an alliance between the military and big business in most of Latin America for low taxes.

Venezuela, under the new Democratic Action administration of Betancourt, has been one of the few exceptions. And even President Betancourt has had rough sledding.

When he assumed office he appointed a tough Minister of Finance, Jose Antonio Mayobre, who had lived in exile in the United States and who drafted a graduated personal income tax similar to that of the United States. He doubled income taxes in the higher brackets, put a tax on profits from land speculation and stock-market operations. As a result, five insurance companies which had been speculating went bankrupt, a hue and cry of financial persecution went up from both Venezuelan and American businessmen, and money began leaving for New York and Switzerland.

As a concession to indignant bankers, Betancourt promoted Finance Minister Mayobre to be ambassador to Washington. However, the new tax reforms still stand and some of the leading American companies, led by Standard Oil's Creole, have brought investment money back to Venezuela.

In Mexico, Finance Minister Ortiz Mena is also toughening up the fairly lenient Mexican tax system to meet Kennedy's Alliance for progress. But in most of Latin America, JFK's suggestion has drawn a big fat zero. The oligarchies just aren't going to tax themselves.

Business Leader
One do-it-yourself Venezuelan businessman is Eugenio Mendoza who has pioneered a new low cost housing plan for his country.

Mendoza, a most progressive businessman in Caracas, decided he could do something about helping those less fortunate. After studying the mass housing program of Gov. Luis Munoz Marin in Puerto Rico, he developed a house of poured concrete slabs and has produced 2,500 of them for his own employees at $4,000 each. Working on a mass-production basis and with some simplifications, Mendoza has brought the price down to $1,000 per house.

Recently the Development Loan Fund in Washington was so impressed with his idea that it advanced $5,000,000 to promote Mendoza's low-cost housing in Venezuela.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The Russians displayed a weakness in air defense. They thumped their chests and boasted when they caught U.S. Airman Powers and put him on trial for aerial espionage. But they did not mention that the American U-2 plane had made 2,090 flights over the Russian heartland before Powers was caught. The only reason he was captured was because his engine flamed out. He had to come down.

The previous 2,000 flights point out the fact that the cost of anti-aircraft weapons for 18,000 miles of border is too high for anyone. Also, whatever weapons the Russians have do not reach to 70,000 feet. The American Bomarc, for example, would have locked on through radar and chased the U-2 into oblivion.

If war comes, the primary weapon of retaliation will be the B-52. There are 630 of them, and the newer ones can remain aloft 30 hours without refueling. Each one carries nuclear bombs in two Hound Dog missiles under the wings, in addition to a big bomb in the bay, plus an item called Quail, which looks like a small plane and which, when released, flies off on a tangent, confusing enemy radar operators.

The B-52 can carry a tremendous load of H-bombs to the heart of the Soviet Union and, enroute home, can advise whether the missiles have already eliminated their assigned targets. This plane also has a remote-controlled system of defense cannon.

In the first line of offense will be 1,000 B-47 bombers. These carry smaller loads of bombs a shorter distance. The mileage can be increased by K-135 tankers and refueling. There are 55 of the new B-58's, which fly at 1,300 miles per hour and can reach Kamchatka from Riverside, California, in four hours. More are coming.

A year and a half ago, a young Lieutenant Colonel named Donald F. Martin wrote an article called Counterforce for the Air University Quarterly Review. It amounts to a bible of United States intent. Martin says that the Air Force had two choices: (1) To deter war through terror and (2) to deter war through military superiority. The U.S. has chosen the second.

If it had chosen terror, the job would have been easier. We could make big bombs with plenty of fallout to be used on Soviet cities. We could use a new knowledge of cheap biological warfare, which guarantees scores of millions of people dying of disease while, at the same time, withering all plant life. Col. Martin feels that 10 percent of a population can live through such terror.

However, without knowing the intent of the Russians, the U.S. Air Force is making smaller I.C.B.M.s, not larger ones. Atlas is barely operational; it will be followed by Titan next summer but both will be followed by Minuteman, a smaller intercontinental vehicle carrying a smaller bomb. The Russians specialize in oversized weapons.

"Perhaps the easiest way to destroy a nation," writes Martin, "is to incinerate its major cities and with them the bulk of the population. A large number of weapons is required. Cities are completely vulnerable to attack by nuclear rocket."

He also mentions gigaton H-bombs. "Since one of these could incinerate an area from Boston to Washington, a few such weapons could virtually incinerate a nation." ## Auxiliaries Honor Two Brides-Elect

FROSTBURG — Two Young Woman's Auxiliary members were the recipients this week of gift white Bibles which were presented to them upon their announcement of their coming marriages. Impressive ceremonies by candlelight took place in two Baptist churches, Welsh Memorial Baptist and First English Baptist with members of the YWA's participating in the programs.

Miss Loretta Barnes, of Laurel, was presented her White Bible by Miss Eileen Frost, president of the Welsh Memorial Baptist YWA, who also gave the charges to the bride-to-be, with Miss Kay Beaman closing with the prayer of dedication. Mrs. Damouth Blanton, YWA counselor, assisted.

Miss Barnes is to become the bride of Richard Olmquist, December 16 in Philadelphia.

Miss Eileen Beal, Washington Street, Frostburg, was presented her white Bible by Mrs. Doris Ward, YWA director at First English Baptist Church, who presented the charges and the dedicatory prayer. Gloria Graze, a YWA member, presented Miss Beal, who was the YWA secretary in her group, with a gift from the auxiliary members.

Miss Beal is to become the bride of Robert White December 21.

Refreshments were served from a poinsettia and holly-centered table.

Presbyterian Women Meet Tonight

FROSTBURG — The United Presbyterian Women of First United Presbyterian Church will meet at 7:45 p. m. today in the auditorium in the education building.

"Joy to the World," a Christmas service of worship will be presented. Taking part will be Beth Muir, narrator; Patricia Turner, first voice; Cynthia Hutchins, second voice; Marsha and Joan Turner, assemblers of the nativity scene; Sandra Willets, soloist accompanied by Thomas Richardson.

Jane Grindel will be the worship service leader. A social hour will follow with the exchange of jingle gifts.

Route 40 Club Sees Yule Play

FROSTBURG — The Route 40 Homemakers Club met a recent evening with 20 members in attendance. Each member answered roll call by telling of a useful gift they plan to give for Christmas. Mrs. Francis Brode was a guest at the meeting.

Mrs. Otis Kamp was in charge of the business session. Mrs. Zeola Robeson led the group in the singing of carols. A playlet, "More Gifts for Christmas" was presented by the group.

Recipes were exchanged by the group and a complete book of the recipes was presented to the group by Mrs. Robeson. Following the meeting, jingle gifts were exchanged.

Cubs To Meet

FROSTBURG — Cub Scout Pack 56 will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at St. Michael's School for their Christmas party. Paul Jenkins, cubmaster will be in charge.

W. Va. Colleges Submit Budgets For Fiscal Year

Only Four Show Slight Increases

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Only four of 11 West Virginia colleges and universities are slated for budget increases in fiscal 1962-63 on the basis of recommendations made by the State Board of Public Works.

The budgets, to be forwarded for action by the 30-day, budget session of the Legislature starting Jan. 10, include small increases for West Virginia University, Marshall University, Concord and West Liberty colleges.

WVU would get the largest allocation — $9.9 million — compared to its present $9.8 million budget, while Marshall would get a $10,000 increase to $2.61 million. Concord would receive $961,515 compared to $959,335 this year and West Liberty $658,402 compared to $657,662.

The recommendations for the other colleges, with present budgets in parentheses, include:

When beauty care becomes, in your life, as everyday as eating, you'll always be ready — for "surprises" as well as "seasons."

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The Big Day — A Week Away!
It's Time NOW For All The "Trimmings"

Your holiday "trimmings" are far more important than holly and tinsel. If you haven't had time before this week to take care of your special beauty needs for the coming social whirl, drop that holly and tinsel this minute and get busy on YOURSELF!

Need a permanent? Appointments will be hard to come by this week, but shop around; you may be lucky. If not, a quick haircut should be possible at your favorite salon; if it won't hold a setting without a body-curl, give yourself a home permanent. Just don't postpone doing something so that you won't have to be self-conscious about straggling locks during the busy days coming up.

What else have you been putting off until the last minute? A pedicure, a manicure, an oil treatment or hair rinse? A facial, a session with the razor and/or depilatory?

What's the status of your party wardrobe? How about your "calling costume" for those day-long excursions to open-houses? Is it complete? Do you have enough pairs of stockings — and enough spares? Are all your sets of gloves spanking clean and ready to go places?

How about your shoes? Should they take a trip to the shoe repairman before they trip the light fantastic with you? Can the professional dry cleaner serve you this week? It's your last chance if you want your garments delivered by The Weekend. Remember, The Weekend is just a week away!

Inspect everything you expect to wear with a fine needle-and-thread. Spend the first part of this week fixing the hems, the snaps, the buttons, the straps. Don't wait until next week.

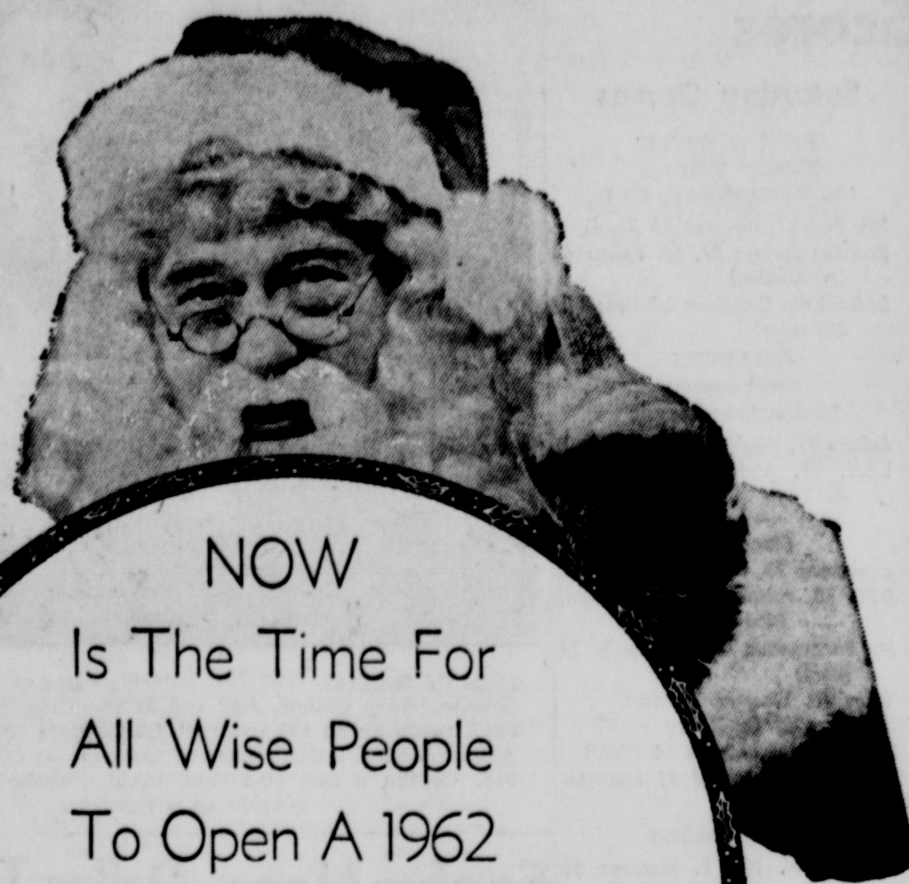

One Christmas card unsent . . . one less sprig of holly . . . fewer trickles of tinsel . . . these will pass unnoticed. It's only when you are unprepared to be as pretty and relaxed as you deserve to be during the happiest season of the year that "people will talk." And the one who will talk loudest will be YOU, scolding yourself for sacrificing your own "trimming" for tinsel.

It's too late to catch up on my "Secrets of Skin Care" for The Weekend. But, if you send for a copy today, you MIGHT receive it in time for a Happy New Year. It will surely arrive at the right moment for Resolutions . . . the first of which should be: Never put off beauty care until "tomorrow." Today's the day, whether or not there's a special occasion or special season in your future. "Secrets of Skin Care" can be

Duke Blue Devils Test Unbeaten West Virginia Quint Tonight

Mountaineers Have Won Six Games In Row

Trim Penn State, 79-67; WVU To Play On Coast Dec. 27

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia Coach George King indicated Sunday he may go to his bench to stop high scoring Art Heyman of Duke when the Mountaineers meet the Blue Devils here Monday.

King said defensive specialist Gale Catlett would "be on Heyman at certain stages of the game with Kenny Ward taking Jeff Mullins." Mullins is the second half of the Blue Devils' one-two scoring punch.

Duke's lone loss was 66-61 to undefeated Duquesne in the Steel Bowl Tournament at Pittsburgh Friday night. The Blue Devils bounced back to trounce Arizona 78-47 in the consolation game Saturday night with Mullins scoring 27 points and Heyman 21.

Beat Penn State
The Mountaineers racked up their sixth consecutive win 79-67 over Penn State at University Park, Pa., Saturday night.

And King gives a lot of credit for the win to Catlett. Catlett was put on Gale Harris in the second half as King put it, "Catlett shut his water off." Harris, who didn't score a point in the first half, picked up 18 in the second 20 minutes, most of them coming before Catlett took over the job of guarding him.

King also pointed out that "Catlett gave us 11 points offensively." However, King said he would start Paul Miller and Ward at forwards with Catlett being brought in throughout the game to guard Heyman.

Thorn Scores 17
Rod Thorn led the Mountaineers scoring Saturday with 17 points and his backcourt mate, Jimmy McCormick, had 16. Miller had 10. King said the WVU cagers "didn't handle the ball too well" against Penn State but "otherwise did a good job."

"We're always happy to come out of there with a victory of that nature," King said.

With Catlett's performance Saturday, backing up a 20 point effort by sub Dick Dubois in the Richmond game Tuesday, King is all smiles when it comes to talking about his bench strength.

The Mountaineers will meet Utah in the first round of the Los Angeles Classic Dec. 27 in their next outing.

Green Bay Wins, 24-17

Packers Edge Rams In Final Quarter

By JOE ST. AMANT
United Press International
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers squeaked by the Los Angeles Rams 24-17, but the individual star was chunky Ram fullback Dick Bass with touchdown runs of 55 and 90 yards.

The Packers, who had already clinched the championship of the National Football League's Western Division before the game started, were coasting along with a 14-3 lead at the third quarter. Bass, who stands only 5-foot-9 and weighs 200 pounds, took a pitchout from quarterback Zeke Bratkowski, skipped around his left end and described an almost perfect "S" as he scampered 55 yards to a touchdown.

After the ensuing kickoff the Packers were forced to punt from their own 45-yard line. Bass took the ball on his own 10, headed for the north sideline and tightrope to a 90-yard touchdown.

Danny Villanueva's conversion after Bass's second touchdown put the Rams out in front, 17-14. The crowd of 49,169 at the Coliseum saw an upset in the making but old Ben Agajanian kicked a 28-yard field goal to tie the score. Then Packer quarterback Bart Starr engineered a 66-yard seven-play touchdown march that put the Packers out in front for good. Halfback Elijah Pitts provided the finishing touch with a 17-yard touchdown run.

Eagles Nose Out Detroit Lions, 27-24

Walston, Jurgensen Hang Up New Marks

By LLOYD NORTHAUD

United Press International

DETROIT (UPI) — Sonny Jurgensen passed for three touchdowns and Bobby Walston kicked a pair of field goals, the second with only 25 seconds to play, to give the Philadelphia Eagles a 27-24 victory over the Detroit Lions Sunday and second place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

The victory momentarily kept the Eagles' hopes alive for a first place tie with New York, but the Giants battled the Cleveland Browns to a 7-7 tie to gain the Eastern Division title and the berth opposite the Green Bay Packers in the NFL championship game on Dec. 31. Had New York lost, then the Eagles and Giants would have had to play off for the division title.

However, the Eagles, defending NFL champions, gained the spot against Detroit in the runner-up bowl at Miami, Jan. 6, by winning Sunday.

The Eagles overcame a seven-point deficit in the final four minutes when it looked as if the Lions had wrapped up a victory.

Jurgensen, whose three touchdown passes equaled the NFL season record of 32 set two years ago by Baltimore's Johnny Unitas, passed 16 to Dick Lucas on a fake fourth-down field goal attempt to knot the score at 24-24.

Detroit took the kickoff and on the second play from scrimmage Don Burrows intercepted a Jim Ninowski pass at the Philadelphia 17.

Jurgensen moved the Eagles 79 yards with three successive pass completions. With time running out, Walston kicked the winning field goal from the 10.

Walston's Total 833
Walston's nine points made him the highest lifetime scorer in the league's history, boosting his 11-year total to 833 points. He trailed Cleveland's Lou Groza by two points entering Sunday's action.

Cards Conquer Steelers, 20-0

Etcheverry Passes For Two Scores

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Quarterback Sam Etcheverry topped off two touchdown passes with a 44 yard stiff-arm run against the fumbling Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 20-0 victory and fourth place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

The 190 pound ex-Canadian star ended his rookie season here with rifting passes and ground gains. Former Utah University star, halfback Larry Wilson, set up Etcheverry's big first period run by intercepting Bobby Layne's pass.

After two running plays by Prentice Gault and John Crow failed, Etcheverry passed behind the goal into Sonny Randle's hands for the first score.

Later in the same period Pittsburgh's Layne passed 21 yards to Bill (Red) Mack. But a defensive player rushed Layne on the next play and the Cardinals recovered a fumble.

John Henry Johnson of the Steelers fumbled at the start of the third period, but a Cardinal scoring threat ended when Jackie Simpson downed Crow after a 27-yard run. Gerry Perry, who kicked two extra points, failed on a 31-yard field goal try.

The Cardinals' second touchdown came when Johnson fumbled on the Pittsburgh 31-yard line. Joe Robb recovered and lateraled to Billy Stacy who ran 25 yards for the score just before the third period ended.

The Steelers started to move in the final period on Layne's 39-yard passing gain to Mack on the Cards' 28. But a Layne fumble, recovered by the Cardinals' Wilson 13, and set up the final Cardinal score. Etcheverry's 15-yard pass sent Crow across the goal with the last touchdown.

Lou Michaels, who won the earlier meeting this season between the two teams with a field goal in the final seconds, failed on a 49-yard try not long after the game got underway Sunday.

Elk Garden Plays At Bayard Tonight

Bayard High School and Elk Garden High School will clash in a Potomac Valley Conference basketball game tonight at Bayard.

Coach Francis Maleonskie's Grant Countians have an overall record of 3-1 and won their only P.V.C. start from Petersburg, 42-39.

Elk Garden is 4-1 for the season and copped three of four engagements in the conference. Potomac State College dropped the final game on its three-day road trip to Prince Georges Junior College Saturday night at Suitland High School by the score of 76-67.

The setback was the first in four outings in the Tri-State Junior College Conference for the Catamounts who now own a season record of 3-5.

John Fahey headed the Potomac scorers with 10 goals and 22 points while Bill Carpenter led the victors with 20 tallies.

Rites For "Clif" Robinson, Former Jockey, Set Tuesday

Led Nation's Riders In 1919; HBPA Has Charge Of Funeral

Final rites will be conducted Tuesday in Baltimore for Clifton "Clif" Robinson, 62, leading winning jockey in the United States in 1919, who died here Friday morning.

The funeral will be in charge of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association and the services will be held at the C. V. Lemmon Funeral Home, 4611 Park Heights Avenue, at 2 p. m. Interment will be in the Horsemen's Plot in Lorraine Cemetery.

A native of Buffalo, N. Y., Robinson rode on the major tracks from 1918 until 1929 when he was forced to retire on account of overweight.

First Win At Bowie
"Clif" broke his maiden on Gold Crest at Bowie in 1918 and during his racing career he rode for such stables as Edwin F. Simms' Xalapa Farm, of Kentucky, which then occupied the spotlight at Calumet Farm now does. "Doc" Riddle, Andy Blakeley and J. S. Cosden, of Baltimore.

Among the great thoroughbreds that Robinson rode were Eternal, who topped the money-winning two-year-olds in 1918 with earnings of $56,137, Leonardo II, Justice F., and Captain Alcock, who was owned by John E. Madden. Other topnotchers owned by Madden were Paul Jones, Grey Lag Dolan and Audacious.

Robinson was aboard Captain Alcock on August 13, 1919, in the Sanford Stakes at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., in which a horse named Upset handed Man O' War, one of the all-time great thoroughbreds, his only defeat in 21 starts.

Led Nation In 1919
In 1919, "Clif" led the riders of the nation with 190 winners, 145 seconds and 126 thirds in 896 mounts. That year he led the jockeys at New Orleans, Louisville, Ark., Lexington, Hot Springs and Latonia, Ky. His contract was sold for $25,000, a record in those days.

Robinson had resided here for 22 years.

John "Jack" Bahen, 20, former LaSalle High School football and baseball star, who has excelled as a halfback for the Miami Hurricanes this season and participated in Saturday's Liberty Bowl game, which Syracuse won, 15-14, at Philadelphia, will receive the Dapper Dan plaque at the club's 14th annual dinner set for Sunday, January 14, at St. Mary's Church Hall.

Other Miami gridders who have won the award were Phil Geatz in 1959 and Jim Crawford in 1960. Jack Fisher, native of Frostburg, and Baltimore Orioles pitcher, was the winner at this year's dinner. Bahen is also from Frostburg.

Bahen scored three touchdowns and 18 points for Miami this season. In the Liberty Bowl game Saturday he caught two passes for 27 yards.

Ragan And Wright Tournery Winners

SEBRING, Fla. (UPI)—Dave Ragan of Sun City, Fla., and Mickey Wright of Dallas, Texas, coacted home with a 67 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 272 to win the $25,000 Scotch Mixed Four-some golf tournament by seven strokes.

The win was worth $1729 each to them for winning the alternate-stroke tournament, which was upgraded from 36 holes to 72, and from $15,000 to $25,000 in prize money, for its second renewal this year.

NATIONAL BASKETBALL ASSOCIATION
By The Associated Press
Boston 117, New York 109

Toronto Triumphs
BOSTON (UPI)—Toronto wing-guard Eddie Schack's second period goal and a pair of third period open net tallies gave the Maple Leafs a 4-1 National Hockey League victory over the last place Boston Bruins Sunday night.

Mountaineers Have Won Six Games In Row

Trim Penn State, 79-67; WVU To Play On Coast Dec. 27

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia Coach George King indicated Sunday he may go to the bench to stop high scoring Art Heyman of Duke when the Mountaineers meet the Blue Devils here Monday.

King said defensive specialist Gale Catlett would "be on Heyman at certain stages of the game with Kenny Ward taking Jeff Mullins." Mullins is the second half of the Blue Devils' one-two scoring punch.

Duke's lone loss was 66-61 to undefeated Duquesne in the Steel Bowl Tournament at Pittsburgh Friday night. The Blue Devils bounced back to trounce Arizona 78-47 in the consolation game Saturday night with Mullins scoring 27 points and Heyman 21.

Beat Penn State
The Mountaineers racked up their sixth consecutive win 79-67 over Penn State at University Park, Pa., Saturday night.

And King gives a lot of credit for the win to Catlett. Catlett was put on Gale Harris in the second half as King put it, "Catlett shut his water off." Harris, who didn't score a point in the first half, picked up 18 in the second 20 minutes, most of them coming before Catlett took over the job of guarding him.

King also pointed out that "Catlett gave us 11 points offensively." However, King said he would start Paul Miller and Ward at forwards with Catlett being brought in throughout the game to guard Heyman.

Thorn Scores 17
Rod Thorn led the Mountaineers scoring Saturday with 17 points and his backcourt mate, Jimmy McCormick, had 16. Miller had 10. King said the WVU cagers "didn't handle the ball too well" against Penn State but "otherwise did a good job."

"We're always happy to come out of there with a victory of that nature," King said.

With Catlett's performance Saturday, backing up a 20 point effort by sub Dick Dubois in the Richmond game Tuesday, King is all smiles when it comes to talking about his bench strength.

The Mountaineers will meet Utah in the first round of the Los Angeles Classic Dec. 27 in their next outing.

Green Bay Wins, 24-17

Packers Edge Rams In Final Quarter

By JOE ST. AMANT
United Press International
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers squeezed by Los Angeles Sunday, 24-17, but the individual star was chunky Ram fullback Dick Bass with touchdown runs of 55 and 90 yards.

The Packers, who had already clinched the championship of the National Football League's Western Division before the game started, were coasting along with a 14-3 lead at the third quarter. Bass, who stands only 5-foot-9 and weighs 200 pounds, took a pitchout from quarterback Zeke Bratkowski, skipped around his left end and described an almost perfect "S" as he scampered 55 yards to a touchdown.

After the ensuing kickoff the Packers were forced to punt from their own 45-yard line. Bass took the ball on his own 10, headed for the north sideline and tightrope to a 90-yard touchdown.

Danny Villanueva's conversion after Bass' second touchdown put the Rams out in front, 17-14. The crowd of 49,169 at the Coliseum saw an upset in the making but old Ben Agajanian kicked a 28-yard field goal to tie the score. Then Packer quarterback Bart Starr engineered a 66-yard seven-play touchdown march that put the Packers out in front for good. Halfback Elijah Pitts provided the finishing touch with a 17-yard touchdown run.

Eagles Nose Out Detroit Lions, 27-24

Walston, Jurgensen Hang Up New Marks

By LLOYD NORTHRAD

United Press International

DETROIT (UPI) — Sonny Jurgensen passed for three touchdowns and Bobby Walston kicked a pair of field goals, the second with only 25 seconds to play, to give the Philadelphia Eagles a 27-24 victory over the Detroit Lions Sunday and second place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

The victory momentarily kept the Eagles' hopes alive for a first place tie with New York, but the Giants battled the Cleveland Browns to a 7-7 tie to gain the Eastern Division title and the berth opposite the Green Bay Packers in the NFL championship game on Dec. 31. Had New York lost, then the Eagles and Giants would have had to play-off for the division title.

Get Bowl Berths

However, the Eagles, defending NFL champions, gained the spot against Detroit in the runner-up bowl at Miami, Jan. 6, by winning Sunday.

The Eagles overcame a seven-point deficit in the final four minutes when it looked as if the Lions had wrapped up a victory.

Jurgensen, whose three touchdown passes equaled the NFL season record of 32 set two years ago by Baltimore's Johnny Unitas, passed 16 to Dick Lucas on a fake fourth-down field goal attempt to knot the score at 24-24.

Detroit took the kickoff and on the second play from scrimmage Don Burrows intercepted a Jim Ninowski pass at the Philadelphia 17.

Jurgensen moved the Eagles 79 yards with three successive pass completions. With time running out, Walston kicked the winning field goal from the 10.

Walston's Total 833

Walston's nine points made him the highest lifetime scorer in the league's history, boosting his 11-year total to 833 points. He trailed Cleveland's Lou Groza by two points entering Sunday's action.

Cards Conquer Steelers, 20-0

Etcheverry Passes For Two Scores

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Quarterback Sam Etcheverry topped off two touchdowns passes with a 44 yard stiff-arm run against the fumbling Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 20-0 victory and fourth place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

The 190 pound ex-Canadian star ended his rookie season here with rifling passes and ground gains. Former Utah University star, halfback Larry Wilson, set up Etcheverry's big first period run by intercepting Bobby Layne's pass.

After two running plays by Prentice Gault and John Crow failed, Etcheverry passed behind the goal into Sonny Randle's hands for the first score.

Later in the same period Pittsburgh's Layne passed 21 yards to Bill (Red) Mack. But a defensive player rushed Layne on the next play and the Cardinals recovered a fumble.

John Henry Johnson of the Steelers fumbled at the start of the third period, but a Cardinal scoring threat ended when Jackie Simpson downed Crow after a 27-yard run. Gerry Perry, who kicked two extra points, failed on a 31-yard field goal try.

The Cardinals' second touchdown came when Johnson fumbled on the Pittsburgh 31-yard line. Joe Robb recovered and lateraled to Billy Stacy who ran 25 yards for the score just before the third period ended.

The Steelers started to move in the final period on Layne's 39-yard passing gain to Mack on the Cards' 28. But a Layne fumble, recovered by the Cardinals' Wilson lost 13, and set up the Cardinal score. Etcheverry's 15-yard pass sent Crow across the goal with the last touchdown.

Lou Michaels, who won the earlier meeting this season between the two teams with a field goal in the final seconds, failed on a 49-yard try not long after the game got underway Sunday.

Elk Garden Plays At Bayard Tonight

Bayard High School and Elk Garden High School will clash in a Potomac Valley Conference basketball game tonight at Bayard.

Coach Francis Maleonskie's Grant Countians have an overall record of 3-1 and won their only P.V.C. start from Petersburg, 42-39.

Elk Garden is 4-1 for the season and copped three of four engagements in the conference. Potomac State College dropped the final game on its three-day road trip to Prince Georges Junior College Saturday night at Suitland High School by the score of 76-67.

The setback was the first in four outings in the Tri-State Junior College Conference for the Catamounts who now own a season record of 3-5.

John Fahey headed the Potomac scorers with 10 goals and 22 points while Bill Carpenter led the victors with 20 tallies.

Giants Head to 7-0 Browns But Cop Eastern Division Title

New Yorkers And Packers Meet Dec. 31

61,084 See Gotham Eleven Qualify For Championship Game

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fortune-fancied New York Giants staggered to the Eastern Division championship of the National Football League Sunday when they hung on doggedly through a pressure-packed second half to hold the Cleveland Browns to a 7-7 tie.

While the scoreboard at Yankee Stadium showed that the second-place Philadelphia Eagles had beaten the Detroit Lions, 27-24, to keep their title hopes alive, the Giants' superb defense and punter Don Chandler came through with brilliant achievements to keep the Browns from scoring and forcing the Eastern Division race into a tie.

Despite the Eagles' win, the Giants needed only a tie against the Browns Sunday to clinch their fourth Eastern Division championship in the last six seasons. And that's what they settled for on this damp, freezing day before a crowd of 61,084.

The Giants thus qualified to meet the Green Bay Packers for the NFL championship, Dec. 31, at Green Bay. The Packers beat the Giants, 20-17, two weeks ago.

Y. A. Tittle's seven-yard touchdown pass to Joel Wells gave the Giants a first-period score but their offense bogged down for the remainder of the game.

The Browns tied the score in the third period when Milt Plum hit Leon Clarke with a 38-yard touchdown pass.

Throughout most of the second half fortune smiled on the Giants, just as it had done several times during the championship season.

Lou Groza Falls

Just before the Cleveland score Lou Groza missed a comparatively easy field goal try of 17 yards and late in the fourth period he was short with another kick from 48 yards out.

The Giants were deep in their own territory on fourth down with two minutes left to play when Chandler booted a 64-yard punt that was downed on the Cleveland seven and doused the Browns' last hope for winning the game.

The Giants had numerous breaks during the first half but they capitalized on only one to set up their first-period touchdown.

A poor punt by Sam Baker went out of bounds on the Cleveland 36 and the Giants scored five plays later. A brilliant 16-yard run by Alex Webster with a short pass from Tittle brought the ball to the Cleveland seven and Tittle then passed to Wells for the score.

Two superb punts by Chandler kept the Browns deep in their own territory during the first half, one kick going out of bounds on the Cleveland three and the other being downed on the Browns' three.

Pat Summerall, the Giants' erratic field goal kicker, had a chance to put the Giants ahead early in the fourth period but he was wide to the left on a try from the 13-yard line.

Brown Gains 101 Yards

Fullback Jimmy Brown of Cleveland, shooting for an unprecedented fifth straight NFL rushing championship, gained 101 yards in 24 carries. The Giants' defense was much more effective in checking Plum's passing, however. Plum completed only seven of 25 attempts for a total of 91 yards.

New York 7 0 0 - 7
Cleveland 0 7 0 - 7
NY — Wells 7 pass from Tittle (Summerall kick)
Cle — Clarke 38 pass from Plum (Baker kick)

Wade Sparkles As Bears Trim Vikings, 52-35

Billy Fires Four Touchdown Passes

By ED SAINSBURY
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bears, led by Billy Wade's four touchdown passes, roared to their highest number of points in five years Sunday to avenge an early season defeat by the Minnesota Vikings, 52-35.

Wade took charge of the Bears when the club trailed, 14-0, after Hugh McElhenny's 81-yard touchdown on the first punt of the game and a 30-yard pitch for the first of three Francis Tarkenton to Jerry Reichow touchdowns.

Wade missed on only two of his first nine passes, connecting to Angelo Coia for 62 yards and Mike Ditka for two, both for touchdowns, and setting up an eight yard touchdown gallop by Willie Gailimore.

Thereafter the Bears tallied on touchdown tosses of 30 - yards from Wade to Ditka and 16-yards to Coia, on Gailimore's 60-yard sprint, a 29-yard run by Charlie Bivins, and on Roger LeClerc's 17-yard field goal.

The Bears' line was the vast difference in the game since rookie Tarkenton also tossed for four touchdowns. Tarkenton, who gained 161 yards on his passes, was thrown for losses nine times for 114 yards and thus the Vikings' net yardage passing was only 47 yards.

Tarkenton though pitched to Reichow for two other touchdowns, 11 and 24-yards, and hit Gordie Smith for 10-yards for another marker.

St. Patrick's Is Winner Over St. Michael's, 50-27

SS. Peter And Paul, St. Peter's Also Cop Catholic Openers

Cotach Dick Boyle's St. Patrick's cagers got off to a flying start yesterday when they defeated St. Michael's defending champions at Frostburg, 50-27, as the Catholic Youth Basketball League launched its 16th annual campaign.

In the twin bill staged at SS. Peter & Paul gym, SS. Peter & Paul downed St. Patrick's, of Mt. Savage, 49-34, and St. Peter's, of Westernport, edged St. Mary's of Gaels of Cumberland, 29-27.

St. Patrick's victory was highlighted by the floorwork and rebounding of Bobby Boyle and Dennis Carolan. Carolan and Timmy Scaletta sparked the attack for the "Fighting Irish" with 14 and 12 tallies while Bill Zang garnered nine tallies. Langan headed St. Michael's scoring with nine markers.

St. Patrick's held a 24-15 lead at intermission.

Brannon Scores 15

Jim Brannon was the "big gun" in SS. Peter & Paul victory with seven goals and 15 points to his credit.

Coach Bob Mattingly's quint jumped off to a 15-6 lead in the first period and was out in front, 40-18, as the contest moved into the final stanza.

J. Williams paced Mt. Savage's scorers with seven baskets and 15 points.

Coach Joe Thompson's St. Peter's floormen scored their fifth straight win over the Gaels having swept all four contests last season.

Redskins Post First Victory In 24 Contests

Top Dallas, 34-24, Dicky James Stars

Washington (UPI) — Little Dicky James' four touchdowns led Washington to a 34-24 victory over the Dallas Cowboys Sunday for the Redskins' first win of the season and their first victory in 24 games.

The versatile and veteran half-back ripped off scoring runs of 5, 4 and 39 yards and caught a one-yard touchdown pass from Norman Sneed on a fake that left him all alone in the end zone without a Cowboy within 10 yards of him.

James, the only first-string back the Redskins had available Sunday, tore up the Cowboys' defenses for 149 yards rushing and caught three passes for clutch first downs on a day when he was doing everything but selling hot dogs in the stands.

Sneed's one yard sneak hung up the final six points, climaxing an 80-yard drive with James' wide sweeps contributing about half the distance. That final touchdown not only iced the game but gave the Redskins their biggest point total of what wound up as the worst season in their 25-year history.

Eddie LeBaron's three touchdowns and Dick Bielski's 42-yard field goal accounted for the Cowboys' 24 points, but LeBaron's two fumbles deep in Dallas territory set up James' last two scores.

Two of the little magician's TD "losses" were of the "home run" variety—to flanker Frank Clarke for 80 and 66 yards, with Clarke getting behind Sam Horner on both plays. An 11-yard pitch to Bill Howton completed the scoring but it was too little and too late as the Redskins led throughout the game.

Giants Held To 7-7 Tie By Browns But Cop Eastern Division Title

New Yorkers And Packers Meet Dec. 31

61,084 See Gotham Eleven Qualify For Championship Game

By NORMAN MILLER

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fortune-fancied New York Giants staggered to the Eastern Division championship of the National Football League Sunday when they hung on doggedly through a pressure-packed second half to hold the Cleveland Browns to a 7-7 tie.

While the scoreboard at Yankee Stadium showed that the second-place Philadelphia Eagles had beaten the Detroit Lions, 27-24, to keep their title hopes alive, the Giants' superb defense and punter Don Chandler came through with brilliant achievements to keep the Browns from scoring and forcing the Eastern Division race into a tie.

Despite the Eagles' win, the Giants needed only a tie against the Browns Sunday to clinch their fourth Eastern Division championship in the last six seasons. And that's what they settled for on this damp, freezing day before a crowd of 61,084.

The Giants thus qualified to meet the Green Bay Packers for the NFL championship, Dec. 31, at Green Bay. The Packers beat the Giants, 20-17, two weeks ago.

Y. A. Tittle's seven-yard touchdown pass to Joel Wells gave the Giants a first-period score but their offense bogged down for the remainder of the game.

The Browns tied the score in the third period when Milt Plum hit Leon Clarke with a 38-yard touchdown pass.

Throughout most of the second half fortune smiled on the Giants, just as it had done several times during the championship season.

Lou Groza fails

Just before the Cleveland score Lou Groza missed a comparatively easy field goal try of 17 yards and late in the fourth period he was short with another kick from 48 yards out.

The Giants were deep in their own territory on fourth down with two minutes left to play when Chandler booted a 64-yard punt that was downed on the Cleveland seven and doused the Browns' last hope for winning the game.

The Giants had numerous breaks during the first half but they capitalized on only one to set up their first period touchdown.

A poor punt by Sam Baker went out of bounds on the Cleveland 36 and the Giants scored five plays later. A brilliant 16-yard run by Alex Webster with a short pass from Tittle brought the ball to the Cleveland seven and Tittle then passed to Wells for the score.

Two superb punts by Chandler kept the Browns deep in their own territory during the first half, one kick going out of bounds on the Cleveland three and the other being downed on the Browns' seven.

Pat Summerall, the Giants' erratic field goal kicker, had a chance to put the Giants ahead early in the fourth period but he was wide to the left on a try from the 13-yard line.

Brown Gains 101 Yards

Fullback Jimmy Brown of Cleveland, shooting for an unprecedented fifth straight NFL rushing championship, gained 101 yards in 24 carries. The Giants' defense was much more effective in checking Plum's passing, however. Plum completed only seven of 25 attempts for a total of 91 yards.

New York 7-0-0-7
Cleveland 0-0-7-0-7
NY — Wells 7 pass from Tittle (Summerall kick)
Cleveland — Clarke 38 pass from Plum (Baker kick)

Coren On Bridge

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠A9 ♥A7432 ♦J885 ♣106
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♠ Pass 1NT Pass
2♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three spades. This hand was practically good enough for a two over one response originally and is consequently worth one further try for game. Partner in all probability has a six card suit since he failed to show another; your over one no trump response, so your ace-nine will be adequate support.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠A3 ♥QJ104 ♦632 ♣104
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♠ Double Redouble Pass
1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass
1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—One no trump. True, you have no diamond stopper, but your hand is otherwise of the no trump type and partner for his redouble, seems marked with some strength in diamonds. A pass, of course, is not to be considered as partner's bid of a new suit is forcing for one round, particularly in light of his previous redouble.

Q. 3—Your partner opens with one diamond and as South you hold:
♠A ♥J ♦Q10862 ♣Q10643
What is your response?
A.—Five diamonds. This is not a hand designed for scientific bidding. The opponents could easily have a game in one of the majors which they may have no trouble in reaching if they keep the bidding at a low level. Furthermore, a thorough exchange of information with partner will still leave you in doubt as to the best contract, so you might just as well take a stab at five diamonds.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠A85 ♥A873 ♦A7 ♣J72
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ 2♣ Pass 2♦
1♥ 2♣ Pass 2♦ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Five clubs. Your hand should produce several tricks for partner with a fine diamond fit and your ability to ruff out his spade losers. There could even be a slam which your jump may encourage partner to bid. We would not give serious consideration to a bid of three no trump.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠10 ♥K9863 ♦A7 ♣Q632
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♠ Pass 1♥ Pass
2♠ Pass 3♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Five clubs. Your hand should produce several tricks for partner with a fine diamond fit and your ability to ruff out his spade losers. There could even be a slam which your jump may encourage partner to bid. We would not give serious consideration to a bid of three no trump.

Q. 6—East opens with one heart and as South you hold:
♠83 ♥A5 ♦AK1064 ♣A102
What do you bid?
A.—Two no trump. This is somewhat irregular from the standpoint of high card values. But you have eight potential winners and in spite of the lack of a spade stopper you should be willing to contract for game if partner has the smattering of stuff he needs to offer you a raise.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠AK10854 ♥K9854 ♦J9
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♠ Pass 2♥ Pass
2♠ Pass 2NT Pass
3♠ Pass 3NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—With this highly unbalanced hand we would force partner into a preference by bidding four diamonds. This will describe a holding of six spades and five diamonds.

Q. 8—East opens with three diamonds and as South you hold:
♠A ♥A2 ♦KQ1086 ♣Q9843
What do you bid?
(Look for answers Monday)

A.—It would be pleasant to double for penalties but, unfortunately, partner would not constitute your double as business. It is a moral certainty that he would bid some number of hearts or spades. This you are not prepared for and the correct choice is to pass and take a sure profit.

Freezing Rain, Sleet Glazes Area Highways

Emergency Snow Plan Is Invoked

Rising temperatures and salt and cinder crews yesterday morning ended the icy nightmare which faced drivers and pedestrians of the Tri-State area Saturday night.

State Police reported that the snow emergency plan imposed about 10 p. m. Saturday was lifted at 11 a. m. yesterday after all primary highways were free of ice.

State Police at LaVale late Saturday night were advising against travel of cars equipped with snow tires, saying only chains were capable of biting into the ice which covered the highways.

Moves Into Area

The storm moved into the area early Saturday evening as rain began to fall and freeze. This was followed by sleet and then again freezing rain.

The State Roads Commission called out 110 men in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties to salt and cinder highways.

All of the road crews were recalled yesterday afternoon after roads were cleared.

No additional trouble was expected, as in late afternoon the thermometer had risen to 53 degrees in Oakland and was 36 here and in Hagerstown.

It was the second time the snow emergency plan had to be invoked. The emergency plan was first used in the previous weekend's snowstorm in Montgomery, Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties.

Falls Reported

State Police in the Tri-State area reported there were a number of accidents during the sleet storm but that they were mostly "fender-benders" which did not result in serious personal injuries.

The situation in Cumberland was about the same as elsewhere from the traffic standpoint.

Pedestrians caught out after the storm broke had a rough time walking on sleet-covered sidewalks and a number of those who fell were treated in local hospitals.

Highways were reported foggy and wet here last night in the aftermath of the sleet storm.

Fog cloaked most of Maryland Sunday night as temperatures rose in the wake of Saturday's sleet and freezing rain.

State Police warned motorists to use caution in the face of visibilities which dropped to as low as 200 feet in some places. Dense fog draped most of Frederick County and parts of Baltimore County late Sunday afternoon. Upper Marlboro reported visibility at less than 200 feet.

The Weather Bureau predicted the fog, mixed with occasional rain or drizzle, would continue Monday in all counties except Garrett. Temperatures were expected to remain above the freezing mark.

Rec Club Plans Special Dance

Benjamin F. Haines, "Y" program director, announces that Rec Club will have a special Christmas record dance on Friday, December 22, 8:30-11:30 p. m.

The Fort Hill Delta Tri-Hi-Y and the Allegany Hi-Y will decorate for the special dance, following school on Friday. All persons attending the dance must wear dress clothes. A special entrance fee will be offered all card-carrying Rec Club members, however, all other interested teen-agers are invited. Call Haines at the "Y" for further information.

Lions Plan Yule Party For Children

The Lions Club will play host to 40 children from Northeast Elementary School at its annual Christmas party, Wednesday at 1 p. m. in the Fiesta Room of YMCA. Santa will be in attendance.

The regular luncheon meeting will be held at 12:15 p. m. in the Community Room of YMCA.

The Weather

YMCA Fun Day Proves Pleasant Time

The expressions on the faces of the youngsters in this picture is proof that Central YMCA's Fun Day Saturday was a pleasant time. Handing out the good things to eat is Albert Cedel, chairman of the YMCA program steering committee. In the

Mrs. Ailes Dies After Illness

Mrs. Sallie Cornwell Ailes, 69, Romney, W. Va., daughter of the late John J. Cornwell, former governor of West Virginia, and Edna (Brady) Cornwell, died yesterday after an extended illness.

Mrs. Ailes, widow of Eugene E. Ailes, was owner of the Hampshire Review, weekly newspaper in Romney.

She is survived by three sons, Stephen Ailes, Washington, Undersecretary of the Army; John C. Ailes and Eugene E. Ailes, both of Romney; two daughters, Mrs. Marshall Sprague, Colorado Springs, Colo., and Mrs. Ira Eyer, Martinsburg, W. Va., and an aunt, Miss Susan Brady, Romney.

The body is at the Combs Funeral Home in Romney, where the family will receive friends today from 7 to 9 p. m.

A service will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Romney. Rev. Charles L. Taylor will officiate and interment will be in Indian Mound Cemetery.

Dorothy Emerson Named Maryland 'Woman Of Year'

Miss Dorothy Emerson, a frequent visitor to Allegany County, has been named 1961 Woman of the Year for Maryland by the Progressive Farmer for her "distinguished career in the Maryland Extension Service where she worked with young people for 38 years." Announcement of the award is made in the magazine's January issue.

Miss Emerson visited county homemaker and 4-H clubs in her capacity as associated 4-H Club agent. She retired from this position last July and since that time she has been conducting leadership training for special groups for the National 4-H Foundation.

She began her career as a teacher in Massachusetts and a New Hampshire schools, entering extension work in New Hampshire during World War I. She later moved to Sussex County, Del., as a home demonstration agent, then to Maryland as Girl's Club agent in 1923.

Miss Emerson is listed in Who's Who of America and is a member of the National Pen Women, Delta Kappa Gamma, Phi Kappa Phi, and Epsilon Sigma Phi.

Yule Display Is Lighted At Civic Ceremony

Children Throng To Manger Scene

The Christmas display of the City of Cumberland was lighted last night.

Illumination of the display, Mayor J. Edwin Keech said, "signals the hope and joy that fills our hearts as the holy season of the anniversary of the birth of Christ, the King, approaches."

He urged all people to "remember to give thanks to God during the Yuletide season for the many blessings He has bestowed upon us."

Gloomy weather and spots of ice remaining on city streets cut attendance at the ceremony.

John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property, was master of ceremonies and the large Christmas tree placed on the grounds of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, was lighted by Mayor Keech.

Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation and Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, the benediction.

Music by the Cumberland Choral Society included Joy To The World, The First Noel, O Come All Ye Faithful and Hark the Herald Angels Sing.

Hermit singing, led by the Choral Society, included O Little Town of Bethlehem and Silent Night.

Mr. Long expressed appreciation of the City of Cumberland to those who participated, including C. Eugene Mason, recreation director; Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director; Ray Valentine, street superintendent, and Joe Sangiavini, Street Department clerk, who planned the display and program.

Glowing tributes were expressed by members of the audience as the tree and display were lighted.

For the children, and most of their parents, the heart of the display was the Creche, built at the Greene Street entrance to Emmanuel Church.

The display will be lighted until after the Feast of the Epiphany on January 6.

Four Bel Air Houses Planned

Five building permits for new dwellings in Election District 7, including four in the new Bel Air subdivision, have been issued so far in December by the office of C. Lee Renard, Allegany County's planning director.

Lester R. McGill, 686 McMillen Highway, one of the area's active home builders, obtained permits to build three of the new houses in Bel Air. One, 24 by 40 feet in size, will be built in Block F, Lot 11. A second, 40 by 26, will be constructed in Block A, Lot 11. The third house, 52 by 24 in size, will be built in Block A, Lot 12.

Quentin L. Griffey, an Ellerslie builder, obtained a permit to build the other Bel Air home in Block F, Lot 13, and it will be 48.5 by 26.83 feet in size.

William A. Thompson obtained the fifth December permit for a 36 by 24 foot dwelling he plans to construct on Hawk Street in Rawlings, also in Election District 7.

Mail Cancellations Reach 627,872

Cancellations at the main post office were approximately 550,872 for the six-day period ending Saturday night, according to Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon.

Yesterday's cancellations were 77,000 compared to 76,500 for the corresponding Sunday last year.

Green Ridge Road Plans Are Cited

Writer Says Issue Controversial Here

Arguments for alternate proposals for the modernization of U. S. Route 40 on Green Ridge Mountain are outlined in an article in yesterday's Baltimore Sun.

Bill Burton, Sunpapers editor, points out that Ernest Vaughn, of the Game and Inland Fish Commission, says it is difficult to forecast the effects the proposed southern route would have on wildlife in the Green Ridge Mountain area, but admitted it would cut off many of the hunting camps from wildlife in the Billmeier refuge.

"It is this cut off that's roused sportsmen out in Allegany County," he said.

Mr. Burton said that not even the forthcoming antlerless deer season is as controversial out in that area as the SRC relocation project and that it is an issue in which Baltimoreans have a stake.

He said it is because of the importance Baltimoreans place on the Green Ridge area that Peck Porter, who heads Long Pond Rod and Gun Club, has appealed to metropolitan organized sportsmen to lend their support to a more northern route which will bypass the wilderness and stick more closely to the present route 40.

A map showing the proposed northern and southern routes is included. In the article Mr. Burton said:

"The northern route, planned by lodge owner John T. Shipway, he said, 'speaks for itself, and if its construction is feasible certainly deserves the consideration of the SRC and Federal highway officials before they go ahead and cut a swath through virgin woodland inhabited only by wild game and thousands of hunters each fall and winter.'"

LaVale Lions Continue Sale Of Yule Trees

Because the inclement weather Saturday and yesterday stymied plans of the LaVale Lions Club, the group's sale of Christmas trees will continue daily this week from noon until 11 p. m. until all of the 1,000 trees are sold.

Joseph J. Dorsey and Paul C. Owens, co-chairmen for the project, had hoped to conclude the sale in three days ending yesterday.

Trees are being sold at two locations. They are on the parking lot of the LaVale Plaza Shopping Center and at the Super 40 Drive-In Theatre. The co-chairmen stress that a good selection of trees remains.

Injured On Bus, Boy Gets $500

A so-called friendly damage suit and its settlement for $500 were filed together Friday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Timothy Lee Smith, an infant, through his mother and next friend, Mrs. Carol Virginia Smith, 12B Fort Cumberland Homes, brought the suit against Queen City Bus Lines, Inc., 1600 Ford Avenue. The boy was riding a bus through Ridgeley about 3 p. m. on June 16 when the driver suddenly applied his brakes.

The declaration stated that the sudden stop caused the bus window to fall, striking the boy's right middle finger, cutting the tendon at the distal joint and fracturing the middle index phalanx of the finger. The settlement was signed by Earl E. Mangas, as attorney for the plaintiff, and E. M. Horchler as attorney for the defendant.

Action Slated On Contract With Planner

To Be Considered This Morning

An order authorizing Mayor J. Edwin Keech to negotiate a contract with Blair Associates, Washington, in cooperation with the State Planning Department, for professional planning services here is scheduled for adoption at today's Council meeting.

The order will implement action of the Mayor and Council last Monday in accepting a report of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

The order will include a note specifying that the Cumberland planning project will be in charge of George T. Marcou, an associate of the firm, who will spend at least five days a month here, and that John R. Joyner will be assigned as resident planner and will spend half of his working days here during the two-year contract.

The planning commission, on December 7, recommended that the State Planning Department be asked to cease negotiations with Morris Knowles, Inc., Easton, Pa., and work out a contract for the work with the Washington firm.

Earlier this year, the commission recommended that the Easton firm be chosen as the city's planner.

The action was reconsidered after it developed that organizational changes in the firm could adversely affect its capacity to perform as originally planned.

East Side Plans Christmas Play

Students of East Side School will hold a Christmas program for their parents tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. in the school assembly. They will present the story "Why The Chimes Rang," by Raymond MacDonald Allen.

Participating are Victor Chaney, uncle; Linda Emerick, Margarita; William Shierley, Little Brother; Bernice Lang, Juanita; Connie Simpson, Old Woman; Janet Weatherholt, narrator; Donna Brehm, Janice Cook, Terry Shafer, Mary Sue Twigg, Janet Decker; angels; Randall Sherwood, Sam O'Brien, Richard Growden, Stephen Potts, shepherds; Robert Mullenax, Joseph; John Norris, Kenneth McFarland, Randall Natale, Kenneth Hardman; wisemen; Ruth Ann Clark, Mary; Sharon Lashley, Vickie Cubbage, Brian Miller, Janet Weatherholt, Cherie McCullough, Sandra Michael, James Wilt, congregation.

A choir of 100 children composed of students of Grades 5 and 6 will sing in the Air, Lay Down Your Staff, March of the Kings, We Three Kings, Ring Out Sweet Bells of Christmas, God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen, Far and Wide, O Holy Night, and Birthday of the King.

The program is under the direction of the classroom teachers, Mrs. Orpha Clark, Miss Betty Morgan, Miss Grace Moore and Robert Miller assisted by Mrs. Margaret Carroll, music resource teacher.

Three Are Held For Quizzing In Robbery Case

West Virginia state police in this area continued over the weekend to press the investigation into the robbing-kidnaping of a 72-year-old Junction store owner Thursday night.

In the course of the investigation, three men were picked up for questioning and are being held for investigation in the Hardy County jail at Moorefield. The case is still under investigation, authorities reported last night.

The victim, Thomas A. Shoemaker, was robbed of $200 in cash, beaten and then taken to a field three miles away and left in the bitter cold Thursday night.

Deaths

Crosser, Henry, 88, Lonaconing, Kalbaugh, Charles O., 70, Cross, W. Va.

Intersection Is Improved

This view of the newly improved intersection of Wineow and Kearney streets shows clearly that trucks should have no trouble entering Kearney now. Widening of the intersection was completed Friday as a joint Street and Police department project. The car entering Kearney Street is using the lane provided by the use of two lanes the State Roads Commission will not need for about two years. The project, completed at minor cost, consisted of removing the old curb, scattering crushed stone, installation of a guard rail and new traffic signs by the Cumberland Police Department.

A service will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Romney. Rev. Charles L. Taylor will officiate and interment will be in Indian Mound Cemetery.

Dorothy Emerson Named Maryland 'Woman Of Year'

Miss Dorothy Emerson, a frequent visitor to Allegany County, has been named 1961 Woman of the Year for Maryland by the Progressive Farmer for her "distinguished career in the Maryland Extension Service where she worked with young people for 38 years." Announcement of the award is made in the magazine's January issue.

Miss Emerson visited county homemaker and 4-H clubs in her capacity as associated 4-H Club agent. She retired from this position last July and since that time she has been conducting leadership training for special groups for the National 4-H Foundation.

She began her career as a teacher in Massachusetts and New Hampshire schools, entering extension work in New Hampshire during World War I. She later moved to Sussex County, Del., as a home demonstration agent, then to Maryland as Girl's Club Agent in 1923.

Miss Emerson is listed in Who's Who of America and is a member of the National Pen Women, Delta Kappa Gamma, Phi Kappa Phi, and Epsilon Sigma Phi.

Yule Display Is Lighted At Civic Ceremony

Children Throng To Manger Scene

The Christmas display of the City of Cumberland was lighted last night.

Illumination of the display, Mayor J. Edwin Keech said, "signals the hope and joy that fills our hearts as the holy season of the anniversary of the birth of Christ, the King, approaches."

He urged all people to "remember to give thanks to God during the Yuletide season for the many blessings He has bestowed upon us."

Gloomy weather and spots of ice remaining on city streets cut attendance at the ceremony.

John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property, was master of ceremonies and the large Christmas tree placed on the grounds of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, was lighted by Mayor Keech.

Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation and Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, the benediction.

Music by the Cumberland Choral Society included Joy To The World, The First Noel, O Come All Ye Faithful and Hark the Herald Angels Sing.

Community singing, led by the Choral Society, included O Little Town of Bethlehem and Silent Night.

Mr. Long expressed appreciation of the City of Cumberland to those who participated, including C. Eugene Mason, recreation director; Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director; Ray Valentine, street superintendent, and Joe Sangiavani, Street Department clerk, who planned the display and program.

Glowing tributes were expressed by members of the audience as the tree and display were lighted.

For the children, and most of their parents, the heart of the display was the Creche, built at the Greene Street entrance to Emmanuel Church.

The display will be lighted until after the Feast of the Epiphany on January 6.

Four Bel Air Houses Planned

Five building permits for new dwellings in Election District 7, including four in the new Bel Air subdivision, have been issued so far in December by the office of C. Lee Renaud, Allegany County's planning director.

Lester R. McGill, 686 McMullen Highway, one of the area's active home builders, obtained permits to build three of the new houses in Bel Air. One, 24 by 40 feet in size, will be built in Block F, Lot 11. A second, 40 by 26, will be constructed in Block A, Lot 11. The third house, 52 by 24 in size, will be built in Block A, Lot 12.

Quentin L. Griffey, an Ellerslie builder, obtained a permit to build the other Bel Air home in Block F, Lot 13, and it will be 48.5 by 26.83 feet in size.

William A. Thompson obtained the fifth December permit for a 36 by 24 foot dwelling he plans to construct on Hawk Street in Rawlings, also in Election District 7.

Mail Cancellations Reach 627,872

Cancellations at the main post office were approximately 550,872 for the six-day period ending Saturday night, according to Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon.

Yesterday's cancellations were 77,000 compared to 76,500 for the corresponding Sunday last year.

Green Ridge Road Plans Are Cited

Writer Says Issue Controversial Here

Arguments for alternate proposals for the modernization of U. S. Route 40 on Green Ridge Mountain are outlined in an article in yesterday's Baltimore Sun.

Bill Burton, Sunpapers outdoor editor, points out that Ernest Vaughn, of the Game and Inland Fish Commission, says it is difficult to forecast the effects the proposed southern route would have on wildlife in the Green Ridge Mountain area, but admitted it would cut off many of the hunting camps from wildlife in the Billmeyer refuge.

"It is this cut off that's roused sportsmen out in Allegany County," he said.

Mr. Burton said that not even the forthcoming antlerless deer season is as controversial out in that area as the SRC relocation project" and that it is an issue in which Baltimoreans have a stake.

He said it is because of the importance Baltimoreans place on the Green Ridge area that Peck Porter, who heads Long Pond Rod and Gun Club, has appealed to metropolitan organized sportsmen to lend their support to a more northern route which will bypass the wilderness and stick more closely to the present route 40.

A map showing the proposed northern and southern routes is included. In the article Mr. Burton said:

"The northern route, planned by lodge owner John T. Shipway, he said, 'speaks for itself, and if its construction is feasible certainly deserves the consideration of the SRC and Federal highway officials before they go ahead and cut a swath through virgin woodland inhabited only by wild game and thousands of hunters each fall and winter.'"

LaVale Lions Continue Sale Of Yule Trees

Because the inclement weather Saturday and yesterday stymied plans of the LaVale Lions Club, the group's sale of Christmas trees will continue daily this week from noon until 11 p. m. until all of the 1,000 trees are sold.

Joseph J. Dorsey and Paul C. Owena, co-chairmen for the project, had hoped to conclude the sale in three days ending yesterday.

Injured On Bus, Boy Gets $500

A so-called friendly damage suit and its settlement for $500 were filed together Friday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Timothy Lee Smith, an infant, through his mother and next friend, Mrs. Carol Virginia Smith, 12B Fort Cumberland Homes, brought the suit against Queen City Bus Lines, Inc., 1600 Ford Avenue. The boy was riding a bus through Ridgeley about 3 p. m. on June 16 when the driver suddenly applied his brakes.

The declaration stated that the sudden stop caused the bus window to fall, striking the boy's right middle finger, cutting the tendon at the distal joint and fracturing the middle index phalanx of the finger. The settlement was signed by Earl E. Manges, as attorney for the plaintiff, and E. M. Horchler as attorney for the defendant.

Action Slated On Contract With Planner

To Be Considered This Morning

An order authorizing Mayor J. Edwin Keech to negotiate a contract with Blair Associates, Washington, in cooperation with the State Planning Department, for professional planning services here is scheduled for adoption at today's Council meeting.

The order will implement action of the Mayor and Council last Monday in accepting a report of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

The order will include a note specifying that the Cumberland planning project will be in charge of George T. Marcou, an associate of the firm, who will spend at least five days a month here, and that John R. Joyner will be assigned as resident planner and will spend half of his working days here during the two-year contract.

The planning commission, on December 7, recommended that the State Planning Department be asked to cease negotiations with Morris Knowles, Inc., Easton, Pa., and work out a contract for the work with the Washington firm.

Earlier this year, the commission recommended that the Easton firm be chosen as the city's planner.

The action was reconsidered after it developed that organizational changes in the firm could adversely affect its capacity to perform as originally planned.

East Side Plans Christmas Play

A choir of 100 children composed of students of Grades 5 and 6 will sing Song in the Air, Lay Down Your Staff, March of the Kings, We Three Kings, Ring Out Sweet Bells of Christmas, God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen, Far and Wide, O Holy Night, and Birthday of the King.

The program is under the direction of the classroom teachers, Mrs. Orpha Clark, Miss Betty Morgan, Miss Grace Moore and Robert Miller assisted by Mrs. Margaret Carroll, music resource teacher.

Three Are Held For Quizzing In Robbery Case

West Virginia state police in this area continued over the weekend to press the investigation into the robbing-kidnaping of a 72-year-old Junction store owner Thursday night.

In the course of the investigation, three men were picked up for questioning and are being held for investigation in the Hardy County Jail at Moorefield. The case is still under investigation, authorities reported last night.

The victim, Thomas A. Shoemaker, was robbed of $200 in cash, beaten and then taken to a field three miles away and left in the bitter cold Thursday night.

Deaths

Crosser, Henry, 88, Lonaconing, Kalbaugh, Charles O., 70, Cross, W. Va.

Loy, George M., 86, Keyser. Purdham, Joseph, 63, of 223 Harrison Street.

Snyder, Mrs. Anna B., 80, former resident.

Intersection Is Improved

This view of the newly improved intersection of Wineow and Kearney streets shows clearly that trucks should have no trouble entering Kearney now. Widening of the intersection was completed Friday as a joint State and Police department project. The car entering Kearney Street is using the lane provided by the use of land the State Roads Commission will not need for about two years. The project, completed at minor cost, consisted of removing the old curb, scattering crushed stone, installation of a guard rail and new traffic signs by the Cumberland Police Department.
